Provisions Of Drought Relief Bill Discussed

BY KARL BERGER
Special Correspondent

The drought relief bill signed into law by President Reagan Aug. 11 contains two provisions that will benefit all dairy farmers regardless of how much they're affected by failing crops or rising feed costs.

The bill rules out the possibility of another 50-cent a hundredweight reduction in the government support price on Jan. 1, 1989. One of three potential cuts outlined in the 1985 farm bill, it would have taken effect if the U.S. Department of Agriculture estimated the government's purchase of surplus dairy stocks in 1989 would have exceeded 5 billion pounds on a milk equivalent basis.

The drought relief measure also requires a 50-cent increase in the support price, to $11.10 a hundredweight for milk of average butterfat content, between April 1 and June 30, 1989. The increase should boost farm milk prices during next year's spring flush, when producers are expected to be squeezed most tightly by higher feed costs and lower milk prices.

"This small, temporary milk price support increase is needed to stabilize farm milk prices next spring and help dairy farmers weather the high feed costs caused by the drought," said James Darr, the chief executive of the National Milk Producers Federation.

The federation, which represents most of the nation's dairy cooperatives in Washington, lob-

Improved ADF Levels In PA Hay Show

BY PAT PURCELL

ROCK SPRINGS (Centre) — Although the drought knocked out several classes of entries in the Pennsylvania Hay Show featured this week at Ag Progress Days, it actually helped in the production of of high protein and easily digestible hay.

In previous years, according to Sidney Bosworth of the Agronomy Department at Penn State University, entries numbered between 140 to 150. This year's tally was 115. However, Bosworth noted that chemical analysis in previous years showed the ADF (acid diges-

Ag Preservation Group Gains New Name, Bylaws

BY LISA RISSER

LANCASTER — Late last week members of the Friends of Agricultural Land Preservation approved a name change as well as changes to their bylaws. Now called Lancaster Farmland Trust, the group adopted the changes to better reflect the organization's growth.

"Friends of Agricultural Land Preservation was established in 1984 as a support organization for the Agricultural Preserve Board," said Alan Musselman, executive director of the group. "We will continue to be supportive of the Board, but we have assumed other projects independent of it. We will be more directly involved in agricultural preservation."

The principal function of Lancaster Farmland Trust is to save Lancaster County farm land, according to Musselman. "We are working with farmers for conservation easements by donation and the acquisition of one, and possibly more, farms to resell to young farmers just starting out."

Ag Luncheon Group Has Optimistic View

BY
EVERETT NEWSWANGER

ROCK SPRINGS (Centre) — A farm communicator told the government day luncheon group here Wednesday that diets, information transfer, promotion, the national food policy, pesticide pressures, and biotechnology are present factors to be considered in agriculture.

Gordon Conklin, director, American Agriculturalist Foundation, said animal agriculture is clearly on the defensive. But, since meat, eggs, and milk remain the source of high quality protein and other necessary food ingredients, Conklin said we desperately need to get this message across to the public.

While Conklin chided the dairy industry for its early promotion of milk as nature's most nearly perfect food when many people were lactose intolerant, he said the dairy industry now has developed products for older people and ethnic groups who cannot drink whole milk.

And he credited the Pork, The Other White Meat commercials with helping consumers perceive pork as fatless turkey and poultry meat. "And perception constitutes reality," Conklin said.

Most farmers remain production-oriented and therefore lose touch with non-farm consumers and our legislators. "We need to spend more time keeping everyone aware of the facts of agricul-

A large representative crowd at Ag Prgress Days watches the hay mowing and conditioning demonstration on Wednesday morning. Eleven rigs that include all makes of tractors and equipment were represented. When the machines finished their rounds, farmers were able to move in close to inspect the work and meet with agribusiness representatives.

This market information provided by ACRES ACRES is a copyrighted market information service developed by the American Farm Bureau and available to Pennsylvania farmers on a daily basis through Pennsylvania Farmers' Association Farm Management Services For additional market comments and trading service contact PFA Commodity Futures Service (717) 761-2740

ACRES CORN UPDATE: Corn futures today closed lower but off session lows on renewed buying tied to export rumors and spillover strength from the soybean pits. Pressure throughout the day was exerted by increasing supplies of free stocks due to 9-month loan program redemptions. The USDA announced after the close a sale of 158,496 Metric tonnes to unknown destinations. Generic certificate bids weakened 1/2 percent today. September corn closed at $2.84-3/4, down 2-1/2 cents after trading to a low earlier in the session of $2.78.

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE: Soybeans today closed mostly higher gaining from 1/4 to 15 cents on rallying bean oil prices. Oil was supported throughout the session by talk that Pakistan would soon re-enter the market, which was complicated further by news that the President of Pakistan was killed in an airplane crash. Beans are desperately seeking fundamental news to try to continue the upward push and remained locked in a trading range.

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat futures today closed from 1/4 cent higher to 1-1/2 cents lower rebounding from session lows. Strength late in the session was tied to spill over from the soybean and corn pits as export interest began to emerge. Corn futures weakness dropped wheat prices as much five cents early in the session. September closed out the day at $3.90-1/4, down 1/4 cent, after trading to a low early in the session of $3.85-1/2.

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE: Live cattle and feeder cattle futures closed higher this afternoon gaining from 20 points in the feeders to as much as 130 points on the October live cattle. Continued cash fundamental strength and active boxed beef movement ignited a short covering rally after a mixed to lower opening. Pressure early in the session was tied to limited buying interest after a hefty increase in open interest yesterday, with the futures discount to cash providing early support.

ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK: cash -steady futures-steady.

ACRES HOG UPDATE: Live hog futures closed from 22 points lower on the spot option to 63 points higher on the December option. Deferred strength was attributed to spillover strength from the cattle pits and the futures discount to cash. Product weakness early in the session limited buying interest which was offset by light selling interest due to the thoughts of decreased slaughter figures from triple digit temperatures. The spot option was pressured late in the session by expectations for increased receipts tomorrow due to moderating temperatures.

OPINION

Challenge Of Education

Well, they've done it again--brought together all segments of agriculture onto one magnificent research farm within a three-day period.

If you attended Ag Progress Days this week at Rock Springs, you had the chance to see every imaginable piece of farm equipment you will ever need for the next five years. And some of these pieces of equipment you saw in operation. For example, they had at least 11 units in the hay mowing-conditioning demonstration that included almost every tractor, hay mowing and conditioning unit available.

Or if your interests may have been in the livestock tent or the dairy production display, you got a good education. Maybe you took the Sic.Q Quiz or visited the Meating Place to learn about new recipes and the lean cuts of pork, lamb, veal and beef.

The Pasto Farm Museum celebrated its tenth anniversary and more than 100 farm families attended the Dairy of Distinction fraternal gathering to make friends with dairy farm families from all across Pennsylvania. Maybe you attended one of these events.

While the Penn State University faculty and staff did a "whale of a job" to showcase the reasearch and expertise that's available for the use of the agriculture industry, the Ag Days event could be a failure. Dean Hood hinted at this idea in his opening remarks at the government day luncheon when he said that rehearsing ag facts for those who already know them is like "preaching to the choir." "We have the responsibility to tell the ag story outside the agriculture industry," Hood said. "People who, for a lot of reasons, don't understand what agriculture is all about must be told of the many facets in our industry. Our educational challenge is to inform the 12 million citizens of Pennsylvania about agriculture," Dean Hood said.

So while Ag Progress Days, under the direction of Joe Harrington, was a great educational experience for the choir, we need to go home and preach what we have learned to our urban friends. What we've learned about this industry called agriculture will have its greatest value if we pass on the information to those around us. And the true success of Ag Progress Days will in the end be determined by the extent the participants join in this missionary-type educational process.

NOW IS THE TIME

By Jay Irwin
Lancaster County Agriculture Agent

To Be Alert For Silo Gas

We are fast approaching silo filling time; in fact many farmers are servicing their equipment now. This is one of the best methods of harvesting the corn crop to obtain maximum feed nutrients. With the dry conditions early in the summer and some badly "stunted" corn, we need to be aware of the increased danger of poisonous gases, known to farmers as "silo gas". We urge our farmers to discuss this hazard with their employees and all family members. These gases can develop from one day to 14 days after the silo is filled. Most of the gases have a chlorine-laundry bleach odor and irritate the eyes and respiratory system. Some are yellow and some are colorless. Don't take any chances -- warn all your people of this danger.

Never enter a partly filled silo without running the blower for at least 15 minutes, and never work alone. These gases are heavier than air and will come down the chute and into the barn. Be careful around recently filled silos.

To Plan Winter Cover Crops

This is a good time to give some thought to a winter cover crop on land that has been tilled this past season. The seeding of ryegrass, bromegrass, or winter grains following the harvesting of the main crop this fall, will help reduce soil erosion.

In addition, a cover crop adds organic matter when it is incorporated into the soil next spring. Cover crops are especially helpful on slopes and hillsides where water erosion is a problem. Just a word of caution, some herbicides used on corn (atrazine) may prevent the growth of any grain or cover crop this fall.

To Be Aware Of Infertility During Hot Weather

During periods of hot weather cows and bulls can become infertile, according to Glenn Shirk, Extension Dairy Agent. When heat becomes too stressful, cows will not exhibit sexual activity. If the heat persists cows may not conceive; it could be that the bull has become temporarily infertile. Or, if the cow does conceive, she may experience early embryonic death.

Once cool weather brings relief, the cow will probably regain her fertility more rapidly than the bull. It may be weeks before the bull becomes fertile. Therefore, if you are interested in getting cows settled as soon as possible after a heat wave, you might be able to improve conception rates by breeding artificially, especially for the first month or so until the bull regains his fertility.

To Keep Stand-By Generators In Order

The value of stand-by generators was very evident this summer with the many power failures from lightning and high winds. The important thing is to have a generator that is in good working condition. We never know when we have storms (rain, snow, ice or wind) that will take away our regular power source.

Highly mechanized farmers are urged to test their generators and be sure they are in top condition. If the generator is old, or not in good condition, it might be wise to invest in another one. Some losses have been very high due to the lack of electricity for a short period of time. Planning for emergency action when electric power is off is very good management.

FARM FORUM OUR READERS WRITE

Editor:

I am writing this letter in sheer disgust, I am ashamed that the American Congressman & Representative cannot see past his nose.

I am ashamed that the American dairy farmer cannot send a representative to a drought hearing that knows anything about the farm situation.

People make jokes about the stupid farmer and they are probably right. Who else in the world would sell everything he markets and not know what he is going to receive for his product? Who else would work 15-hour days only to find out that he did not work hard enough so he could take a vacation? Who else would gamble that it was going to rain enough to supply food for the country at slave wages.

I keep reading about a 50 cent increase in milk prices and I keep hearing about emergency loans and emergency feed.

Only the American farmer would be stupid enough to believe that these things will keep him in business. Only the American farmer will continue to work long

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

Background Scripture: Deuteronomy 6.

Devotional Reading: Deuteronomy 6:1-9.

We are so accustomed to bewailing "the new generation," that we may forget that in God's sight it doesn't matter whether a generation is "new" or "old," but whether it is obedient to him. There are numerous places in the Bible where the "old" generation failed God and he had to go with the next one to accomplish his purposes.

One of those failures was evident in the story of the Israelites' wanting to go back to Egypt rather than into the Promised Land. The "old" generation, for all their experience with God and the wilderness, failed because they lacked the faith to follow God's plan. So, the consequence was that that generation should wander into the wilderness for 40 more years. Because of their timidity, that generation of Israelites was disqualified from taking the Promised Land.

LEARNING FROM MISTAKES

So, it was to a "new" generation that the Promised Land was to be given. Presumably, the children of the Israelites learned a lesson from their parents. No generation can keep from making mistakes, but we can try to help succeeding generations learn from them. Of course it is difficult to teach a "new" generation, but if we're open and honest about our mistakes, our sins, we can at least give them the opportunity to learn and avoid the consequences we have had to pay. The problem is often, not that a generation has its failures, but that it pretends otherwise and thus increases the probability that the mistakes will be perpetuated.

This is what Moses attempted to do when he addressed the "new" generation of Israelites: "And when the Lord your God brings you into the land which he swore to your fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give you, with great and godly cities, which you did not build, and houses full of all good things, which you did not fill, and cisterns hewn out, which you did not hew, and vineyards and olive trees, which you did not plant, and when you eat and are full, then take heed lest you forget the Lord, who brought you out of the land of Egypt..." (Deuteronomy 6:10-12).

GODS WITHIN US

To the "new" generation of Israelites, Moses also said: "You shall not go after other gods, of the gods of the people who are round about you" (6:14). It sounds like such simple advice, but it isn't, not if we're to judge from human history. Even when Western civilization had given up idols and graven images, that did not mean the end of serving "other gods." Although Christianity rather quickly conquered all of Europe, the old pagan gods were often anonymously incorporated into the new religion.

For the acid test for religion is not the faith to which you publicly subscribe, but that which you follow in the day-to-day living of your life. The problem is not so much the pagan forces that surround us, but those which inhabit our lives from within. We profess a spiritual power, but live as if it were only the material that counted. We preach faith, but we try to live by certainty. We talk of venturing forth for God, but we cling desperately to our security. We elevate righteousness, but spend our lives grasping at power. Even-- and maybe especially-- in our church lives.

So Moses gave the "new" generation good advice and they were wise enough to heed it.

That s why it's smart to make Agway Silage Fresh Enzyme Additive or Silage Fresh Bacterial Inoculant part of your silo management program

Silage Fresh controls fermentation to help you recover more tons of dry matter It improves forage quality, too, for more milk per acre of corn ensiled

CHORE-TIME

CHORE-TIME®
MEAL-TIME® feeding system

- The only feeder you'll never need to adjust
- Feeds "meals" to save 5% to 20% of your feed
- Competitively priced with ordinary feeders

The MEAL-TIME® system gives hogs time between meals to digest feed thoroughly so feed is fully utilized.

The MEAL-TIME® system has been proven in both university and farm trials to boost feed conversion, save water waste, cut labor requirements, and provide more profit potential per hog.

Look at the features our patented MEAL-TIME® system offers you:

Chore Time MEAL-TIME feeder requires no special ration – you use the ration you have been using
Hogs eat in shifts More dominant hogs eat first while others continue to sleep and relax Then others eat until all hogs have had their fill of feed and water
Water lines stay activated awhile after feed line is deactivated – so all hogs have plenty of water with meals
Water lines are again automatically activated for a 2 hour period between meals to let hogs drink Longest period water supply is deactivated for younger hogs is less than 2 hours for older hogs about 3 hours
Pig operated auger like restrictor in drop tube dribbles fresh feed into trough as hogs eat helping to minimize feed waste Hogs eat all they want
Durable galvanized steel grill is designed to take the punishment hogs love to dish out
Feeder comes in 2 sizes 24 diameter pan for hogs up to about 12 weeks 30 pan for 12 weeks to finish Pan is made of heavy roto molded corrosion proof polyethylene Each feeds 35 hogs pen

To replace old fence-line feeders with MEAL-TIME Feeders, we offer a special Fence-Line MEAL-TIME Feeder It comes with a solid partition to divide it (but the fence shown here is not included) One in each pen divider is recommended

Safety

You can't help it, you worry: When youngsters go bicycling after dark, play baseball on a dusky street or set out at daybreak to ride a paper route, you know you just can't rely on every driver who's on the road to be a cautious one. What can you do to help keep your child out of harm's way?

Many parents have discovered a new product that adds nighttime visibility for safety to children's wear, running and cycling gear and other outerwear. Even non-sewers can use Scotchlite™ Reflective Material and Tape, the new 3M product being distributed by the Pellon® Division of Freudenberg Nonwovens. The attractive, grey, metallic trim just irons-on to clothes.

You can find this new safety product at home sewing centers, or send a self-addressed #10 envelope to receive a free brochure with project ideas to: Pellon Division, Freudenberg Nonwovens, 119 West 40th Street, New York, N.Y. 10018.

Computer Control Comes To The Pasteurization Process

BY LISA RISSER

ROCK SPRINGS (Centre) — Within the next 10 years, 90 percent of milk plants in Pennsylvania will have magnetic-flow meter systems regulating their pasteurization process, predicted Tom Palchak, manager of Penn State's Creamery. "There are no more than five plants that currently have these systems," he remarked.

Polchak was on hand at the Theme Building during Ag Progress to discuss dairy processing with visitors.

The system has been around for years in the liquids industry. It primarily was used in processing oil, syrup, and sugar products. The university Creamery, which processes 125,000 gallons of milk yearly, received Food & Drug Administration approval in February to operate the system in their business.

The magnetic-flow meter system, or meter-based timing system, is more efficient than the timing pumps used now and controls the milk flow more easily. The timing pump uses positive displacement to regulate the flow of milk in the pasteurization process. It is a piece of equipment that needs regular preventative maintenance in addition to straight repairs.

The meter-based timing system uses an electronic pulse to control the speed of the milk. The user programs into the system how many total gallons the run will be and the meter speeds or slows the flow according to that figure," Palchak said.

Also on the horizon is the use of computer systems to control milk pasteurization. FDA recently approved their use as a replacement of the hard-wired controls currently in use.

"This is significant because the dairy industry is advancing technologically. They (industry members) can feel safe to incorporate it in dairy processing," Polchak said.

The Theme Building at Ag Progress featured a display with a video depicting how a cow's rumen works. Also there were displays on milk processing, crops and soils, and computers.

Computers Becoming A Farming Tool

BY LISA RISSER

ROCK SPRINGS (Centre) — For the farmer interested in computerizing his operations, George Greaser, ag economist at Penn State, recommends starting with an accounting system with a financial analysis program.

"This program gets the farmer's records up and makes all his records available for analysis," said Greaser, who was in the Theme Building during Ag Progress. "Farmers traditionally aren't going to go through a stack of papers to compare data, whereas with the computer, they can access lots of information almost instantly."

The accounting program allows farmers to ask "what if" questions by adjusting variables to determine if a course of action will earn money for them.

Once the farmer has this basic program, Greaser recommends obtaining production programs such as feed analysis and performance data on cattle.

Penn State's department of agriculture is compiling a list of suggested software that they hope to have available to farmers soon.

The price of a good system is usually around $2,400 plus about $1,000 for software, according to Greaser. However, he and other computer experts predict that prices should drop dramatically this fall when Radio Shack introduces its newest computer. The newest Radio Shack entry into the computer market should run about $1,400. This low price probably will cause IBM to drop the price on their System 2 computers to a comparable price.

"Once the farmer has a computer and telephone modem, he can hook into DHIA to access his herd information and Penn Pages, the university information system," said Greaser. "He'll have a lot of information at his fingertips."

In a separate building, the college of agriculture was offering a free computer class to the public. The classes, led by Vince Verbeke, education specialist with the college, were designed to show the general public some of the things that computers can do. "It shows the public the technology involved with agriculture," said Verbeke. "The classes also help demystify computers."

This is the second year for the computer classes, which has been drawing people of all ages, from youngsters to senior citizens. Participants sit down in front of a MacIntosh computer and go through a series of exercises and learn several functions of the computer. Each person leaves the class with a sheet of paper on which he has blackened in his county on a state map and written in his name.

"It's amazing how fast they pick it up," said Verbeke. "They're having fun here."

Enthusiasm High As Temperatures Soar

Gilbert Gummo of Filmore in Centre County returns to Ag Progress Days for the new in the old farm equipment. "I'd have to say the old farm machinery and tools are my favorite. I always go to the museum (Pasto) because every year they change it and I don't want to miss a thing." He and wife Betty and daughter Marlene dairy farm on 250 acres just outside of Bellefonte. Betty said they usually drink milk, but the hot temperatures Wednesday forced them to the nearest drink stand them came to on Main Street.

Charlie and Elaine Benner from Middleburg, Pa. attend Ag Progress Days every year because it is educational. "We like to see what's new. This is the first time I've gone on one of the research tours and I thought the water quality tour was certainly worth it," said Elaine. Chalie was interested in methods of pesticide application which he has been experimenting with on their 200-acre dairy farm.

Karl Miller of Bangor enjoyed taking the general reserach tour. A dairy farmer, Miller learned a lot at the Agway exhibit, where he discussed field fresh for alfalfa.

"This is a great opportunity to see all the new technology in this country," said Sebastian Quijada and his wife Iris, both citizens of Venezuela. Sebastian is a student of agriculture at Penn State University. Being a teacher in farm equipment and machinery in his country, Sebastian's enthusiasm and excitement was equalled only by that of his two young children. When asked if he could take anything home to his home in Venezuela what would it be he was quick to point to a $150,000-plus tractor and disk. "I would really like to take that home with me."

Lorrain Raybuck noted that there were more cattle and more farm-machinery exhibits this year as opposed to last year. A beef farmer from Punxsutawney, Raybuck was glad to discover that he can get replacement blades for his haybine that are attached with bolts rather than rivets.

David Glass is the owner of a farrow-to-finish hog operation in Birdsboro. He has been attending Ag Progress since the days when it was held in Hershey. This was the first year he and his wife brought their two children with them. The reason: no diapers to worry about.

Atlantic Members Sign Up To Stop Price Cuts

SOUTHAMPTON (Berks) — With pen in hand, Ronald B. Reich carefully placed his signature on the line. In doing so, he joined other Atlantic Dairy Cooperative members in saying "enough is enough."

Reich, a dairy farmer from Winfield, Pa., was among hundreds of Atlantic members who put their names on the line for their industry. What they signed was a petition strongly opposing additional cuts in the milk price support program.

Spearheaded by the National Milk Producers Federation (NMPF), the petition drive was part of a campaign to "Stop the Price Cuts." NMPF member cooperatives, such as Atlantic, participated in the campaign by gathering signatures from their own members.

According to NMPF, the petition drive has had a positive effect, as reflected in the core package of the drought relief legislation. The bill, which President Reagan is expected to sign this week, includes the repeal of a pending 50-cent cut in the support price.

In signing the petition, Reich said he believes that "the price of milk must be increased, not cut, especially since feed costs are almost doubling due to the dry weather."

The drought of 1988 has placed additional hardships on an industry that has suffered financially in recent years. Since December 1983, the price support for milk has dropped by $2.50 per hundred pounds of milk, a 20 percent reduction.

Park L. Buckwalter, a director of Atlantic, said that lower feed costs in the past have helped farmers survive falling milk prices. But, that has changed.

"Now, because of the drought, feed prices have risen sharply," said the Watsontown, Pa., dairyman. "It is important that milk prices go up instead of down."

Increased feed costs brought on by the drought have already forced many farmers to begin culling their herds. And, fewer cows mean less milk and less income.

"A lot of young family farmers will not make it financially if the present conditions continue," said Reich, who stressed the need for an end to support price cuts.

This is the message being sent to Washington through the petitions, which represent dairy farmers from across the nation. Atlantic members signed their names to the petitions during recent district picnics.

USDA Guidelines To Pork Referendum

LANCASTER — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has issued a final rule governing procedures for conducting the Pork Referendum as authorized by the Pork Promotion, Research and Consumer Information Act of 1985.

Referendum voting in Lancaster County will be conducted in the Conference Room at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster, off the Manheim Pike near Jones Pontiac, during normal business hours (8:30 a.m.-5:00 p.m.). Voting will be conducted on two days, September 7 and 8, 1988 in county Extension offices. Voting also will take place from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. on September 7.

Producers and importers unable to vote in person may request an absentee ballot by writing or visiting Ken Kephart, Pork Refendum State Extension Coordinator at 324 Henning Building, University Park, PA 16802. Absentee ballots will be available from August 1 until close of business, August 26, 1988. Absentee ballot return envelopes, containing ballot and registration/certification statements, must be signed by the voter and mailed so as to be received in the county Extension office serving the county of voter residence, by close of business on September 1, 1988.

All pork producers who produced (and owned) porcine animals in the U.S. for sale in commerce and who are subject to assessment during the representative time period of November 1, 1986, through September 6, 1988 are eligible to vote. Importers who imported porcine animals, pork or pork products during the representative time period are also eligible to vote. Also eligible are 4-H, FFA and other youth who owned porcine animals and are subject to assessment during the representative time period.

We Put More Men In The Field Than The United States Army.

Currently, Uncle Sam keeps around 300,000 army soldiers on active duty.

Farm Credit, on the other hand, helps keep over 2 million farmers on active duty. With more loans for more farming needs than any other lending institution.

For many of you, we've been there from the beginning. With money for land, as well as your house and barn.

We help stock the farm, too. With loans for everything from cows to catfish. Seeds to saplings. Fertilizer to fencing.

And when it's time for a new tractor or pick-up, just call us to get the wheels turning.

Farming has been our only field of interest for seventy years. That's because we're farmers too. Farm Credit is owned and controlled by the same farmers who use its services.

What's more, come rain or shine, we'll stick by you in any kind of weather. And when you think about it, that's reason enough to join our ranks.

FARM MANAGEMENT

BY ROLAND P. FREUND
Regional Farm Management Agent

Each year at this time we have many farmers with dairy or beef cattle to feed who are short of forage. At the same time their neighboring crop farmers have corn fields which they are willing to sell for silage. If both parties can agree upon a price that is fair, then trading corn silage can be a good deal for both of them. This is especially true in a year when drought results in shortage of forage and poor grain yield in corn fields. To analyze such a situation it is necessary to look at the transaction from the view points of both the corngrower and the cattleman.

Corngrower's Perspective

Before corngrowers can decide what they must get if they sell corn as silage, they need to work out what the field would give them if they sell it as grain. They must know GRAIN YIELD potential and the PRICE they can expect at harvest time. Grain yield can be determined by sampling and yield checking the field. Price can be established by what the mill is offering for contract deliveries at normal harvest time. These two facts enable corngrowers to determine the gross income potential for corn as grain.

But this is NOT what the grain is worth when it's standing in the field. HARVEST cost, DRYING, and HAULING must all be deducted first to give the net income from grain. This then is the MINIMUM which graingrowers should accept. If they can get more than this by selling it elsewhere, that alternative may be a better deal for them.

Cattlemen's Perspective

Buyers of a cornfield need to know how much feed, and the value of the feed that they are getting. CORN SILAGE YIELD in an even stand can be measured by sampling techniques. With uneven fields in droughty conditions this is a guessing game. Because there is about twice as much water as there is dry matter in silage, it's more important to know the DRY MATTER% (D.M.%) and pay for dry matter tons than to try to estimate moisture levels and count wagon loads. The simplest and most accurate system to determine yield is to start with an empty silo, measure the level of silage in the structure and use silo tables to arrive at the DRY MATTER TONS in the silo. Take care to check if the tables are for once only filling, for settled height, or for settled and refilled capacity.

When cattlemen are feeding normal well-eared 35% D.M. corn silage (65% moisture), in each ton the cattle are eating about 4 hundredweight of earcorn and 4 hndredweight of fibre equivalent to a fair quality grass hay. This means that in one D.M. Ton of corn silage there is approximately .57 tons of ear corn and .57 tons of hay. So, the PRICE OF EAR CORN and the PRICE OF GRASS HAY can be used to calculate corn silage value.

The cattleman is going to have expenses handling this silage which must be deducted: HARVESTING, HAULING, and ENSILING. In addition there are ENSILING LOSSES and QUALITY adjustments which need to be considered. The resulting value is the MAXIMUM price that the cattleman should pay.

Example

Area of field- 45 acres
Shelled corn yield- 37 bu.
Silage fills 20x50 silo, 118 D.M.T.
Shelled corn price- $3.20/bu.
Ear corn price- $100/T.
Fair grass hay- $70/T.

Corngrower's calculations

Grain gross income- 37x3.20 = $118
Harvesting cost- $23
Grain haul- 2
Drying charge- 9
Total deductions 34
Potential income from grain $84
Stover value- 13
Corngrower's minimum value/ac. $97

Cattleman's calculations

Yield = 118/45 = 2.62 D.M.T./Ac.
0.57 Tons Earcorn @$100 = $57
0.57 Tons Grasshay @$70 = $40
Feedvalue/D.M.T. Cornsilage = $97
Feedvalue/Acre = 2.62x97 = $254
Harvest cost- $45
Hauling cost- 15
Ensiling cost- 9
Storage loss (10%) 25
Total costs, losses $94
Cattleman's maximum value $160 per acre

At various moisture levels this is equivalent to a price per wet ton: 60%- $25, 65%- $22, 70%- $19, and 75%- $16.

Buyer beware!

Recognize that there is usually a big difference between minimum and maximum price in such a deal. Careful calculations should ensure that a price is struck which is advantageous to both parties.

To assist in these computations Penn State Extension has a computer template in each extension office. Do not hesitate to contact your office and request that your figures be run through the "Pricing Corn Silage" program. Providing the information provided is reasonably accurate, the printout will give both parties the information which they need to negotiate a deal.

Drought Relief Bill

bied for a support price increase of $1 during congressional hearings on the relief bill. But federation officials say they aren't disappointed at the eventual result.

"We're pleased that in a very budget-minded Congress, we got what we got," said Mike Brown, a NMPF economist.

Earlier in the year, before drought relief became a major issue, the federation launched a campaign to eliminate the possibility of a 50-cent support price cut in which it enlisted the support of member cooperatives and farmers throughout the country. The new legislation effectively ends that campaign as well as lobbying efforts for another whole herd buyout or milk diversion program to reduce production below the 5-billion-pound trigger.

Currently, farm milk prices are on the rise as seasonal factors and the drought tighten the supply-demand equation. The Minnesota-Wisconsin price -- the benchmark for setting minimum prices in the nationwide federal order system -- climbed 18 cents in July, to $10.52 a hundredweight. Some analysts predict it will reach $11.20 before the end of the year.

The M-W will fall, however, during the next spring flush. The temporary increase should keep milk prices 25-35 cents higher than they would otherwise be during this period, Brown said.

The bottom line? Maintaining current profit margins, if any, would appear to be the best most producers can manage over the next year as higher than anticipated milk prices are more than offset by higher feed costs. In July, soybean meal prices as high as $360 a ton helped push the milk-feed price ration down to a national average of 1.15, well below the level thought to be profitable for milk production. The government's August crop report, which estimated a corn crop 35 percent below last year's 7.3 billion bushels and a soybean crop 23 percent less, promises prices will remain high through at least the first half of 1989, Brown said.

Obviously, the impact of the drought will vary among producers according to the amount of feed they buy and the extent of crop losses they experience. According to the federation, the "average" 60-cow herd owner may pay as much as $15,000 more for feed next year while receiving only about $5,000 in government disaster benefits.

Those benefits will be available only to livestock producers who grow their own feed. A provision that would have extended assistance to purchased feed as well did not make it into the final version of the drought bill.

The bill does contain a broad program of assistance to crop farmers. Producers whose losses exceed 35 percent of their average yields are eligible for payments -- in cash -- that will make up 65 percent of the value of these losses. Losses in excess of 75 percent will receive 90 percent compensation.

Other provisions include:

-- a revamped assistance program for livestock producers who suffer crop losses. This will supercede the Emergency Feed Program and Emergency Feed Assistance Program already on the books.

-- a package of credit measures for farmers, banks and rural businesses. This includes extending eligibility for low-interest emergency loans from the Farmers Home Administration to farmers without crop insurance coverage.

-- assistance for tree growers and landowners who preserve wildlife habitat.

tible fiber) was 35 percent or more in first cuttings. This year's analysis showed many samples were below 30 percent and many more close to this level.

"What the drought did was to create some excellent haymaking and drying conditions. Quality is excellent, but is does not compensate for the loss in quantity," explained Bosworth.

For the first time this year, according to Bosworth, visual judging was complemented by computer forage analysis. Lester Vough, forage specialist at the University of Maryland, first ranked the forage samples on visual appearance. Samples were then analyzed. For the most, part Vough's visual impressions were confirmed by the analysis, but he said both methods are essential to the farmer.

"To really get a true picture of the forage content you must do both. Chemical analysis is not absolute. It will not tell you that the hay is musty or moldy. It will not tell you that the hay contains horse nettle. These are things you can only tell by examining the hay visually. But visually you cannot tell what the protein content is and that is very important for the dairy farmer who is trying to balance his ration. Chemical analysis is a must," said Vough.

Dewey Shaffer of Newville took the grand champion spot in section I entries which were field cured or partially field cured, plus mow finish (without heat or hay preservatives). His later-cut alfalfa with not over 10 percent grasses tested 22.1 percent crude protein, 14.9 percent digestible protein, and 26.1 percent ADF. Total digestible nutrients were 71 percent.

In section II entries, partially field cured plus heat dried (no hay preservatives), the grand champion was Jay McCarrell of Eighty-four. McCarrell's later cut alfalfa tested 22.1 percent crude protein, 16.6 percent digestible protein, and 25.6 percent ADF.

Grand champion of section III entries for partially field cured plus hay preservatives was Nevin Rice of Blain. Rice's clover tested at 24.5 crude protein, 16.3 percent digestible protein and 25.2 percent ADF.

Wismer Receives Senate Ag Citation

PA Grange Makes Decisions

At its July Board of Directors meeting, the Pa. State Grange Service Corporation took several far reaching decisions that will propel it into the future and help maintain its position as the fastest growing farm organization service provider in Pa.

First, the Board of Directors created the position of Chief Executive Officer and appointed Charles E. Wismer, Jr., to the post. Wismer is the Chairman of the Board of Directors and recently retired as Master of the Pa. State Grange after nearly a decade in that position. Wismer stated, "the service corporation is experiencing rapid growth and having a CEO in charge of the day to day operations will insure that the growth continues in a logical, manageable fashion."

Second, the Board of Directors entered into a joint agreement with Communicating for Agriculture, a Minnesota based, non-profit farm research organization, to market a unique concept in health insurance in Pa. "This concept is very new and exciting," explained Wismer. "This policy not only provides health insurance at a reasonable cost, it also provides a cash value retirement fund and a death benefit," Wismer said.

Finally, the Board of Directors approved a $7,000 computer upgrade which includes both software and hardware. "This new computer capability will not only allow us to expand services but will allow us to track individual accounts in much more detail and much more efficiently," said Ronald Shaffer, who worked with the computer vendor in developing the up-grade package and presented the proposal at the meeting.

The 18-month-old corporation will provide more than $5 million worth of services to the 42,000 members of the Pa. State Grange.

tour of the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore.

Gene Swackhamer, President, told Lancaster Farming the challenge for the farm credit system is to get money from New York to the farm customers at a good interest rate. "While it's hard to realize from a farmer's viewpoint," Swackhamer said, "our money markets are greatly influenced by world-wide finance. We seem to be headed into a period of rising interest rates. But like older farmers say, 'it's an election year', so maybe we'll see a little easing of rates later in the year."

Swackhamer reported second quarter earnings for the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore and affiliated associations at $2.9 million as compared to $3.9 million for the same period of 1987. "Business is good, our loan volume is up from this time last year," Swackhamer said. "We've kept our loan pricing margins very tight. Consequently, our loan rates are very competitive.

Commenting on the effects of the drought, Swackhamer said that to date ag lenders have only been minimally impacted. But, we won't see the true economic result of the drought until late this year or early 1989.

Operating reports show combined loan volume of the bank and affiliated associations at $2.6 billion as of June 30, 1988, as compared to $2.5 billion one year earlier.

Farm mortgage delinquency rates at June 30 this year were 3.6 percent of the number of loans, compared to 4.3 percent last year. Delinquency rates on production, operating and other short-term loans also improved this year with 2.4 percent of the number of borrowers delinquent as compared to 2.9 percent on June 30, 1987.

At the farm of Roger and Grace Moyer, Lititz, the group was introduced to a modern computerized cage layer operation. The Moyers have 174,000 birds under a new computer system that moniters temperature, feed consumption, egg flow and emergency problems.

The farm tour in Pennsylvania was planned to visit borrower's farming operations and to visit with the local boards of directors to get first-hand knowledge of the needs and concerns and to determine if Farm Credit meets those needs adequately. The group made stops in Stewartstown, New Park, Fawn Grove, Lancaster, Lititz, Williamsport, Mill Hall, and State College.

The mid-Atlantic region of The Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore serves five states (PA, MD, VA, DE, WV) and Puerto Rico. The region has over 52,000 member/borrowers with loan volume of $2.6 billion. It's a co-operative totally owned by its member/borrowers.

New Cattle Handling Video Available

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Office of Transportation and the Livestock Conservation Institute have jointly produced an 18-minute video demonstrating the proper techniques for handling and transporting cattle easily, effectively and humanely.

There are five basic elements of cattle behavior: Cattle vision, reaction to noise, flight zone, natural circling behavior and natural following behavior. The video shows how people can take advantage of these elements to move cattle without stress, thus producing fewer bruises, lower death and sickness rates and increased production efficiency. The video also shows the proper design of alleys, ramps and transport equipment that will help livestock handlers move cattle.

The video is designed to serve as a training aid to instruct animal handlers -- whether feedlot workers, truckers or stockyard employees -- to humanely move cattle from one location to another. Production practices with squeeze chutes are also featured, along with loading and transporting animals in trucks.

Copies of the video, in VHS format only, can be purchased for $29.95, including postage and handling, from the Livestock Conservation Institute, 6414 Copps Ave., Suite 204, Madison, Wis., 53716; telephone (608) 221-4848.

Ag Luncheon Group Has Optimistic View

ture," Conklin said.

Conklin reviewed some of the events that were important to agriculture 100 years ago. He found many of the same problems still exist today. In 1988, parents were concerned about the degrading reading material available and were wondering what it would do to their children. Today it's TV and other things.

A hundred years ago farmers were borrowing heavily to buy high priced land and equipment, and some were going broke. Duty-free imports of agriculture products were pouring in from Canada-- 5000 horses in 1887, 16,000 head of cattle, 14,000 sheep, and 14,000,000 dozen of eggs.

And like the drought of 1988, the blizzard of 1888 cane close to wiping out nearly half of the farmers. And many farm boy were leaving agriculture and great concern was expressed on the editorial pages of the time.

Conklin believes the future of agriculture like the past will have problems. "A national food policy to ensure plenty of food all the time will result in too much food most of the time," Conklin said. "And pesticide pressures will continue to work toward zero tolerance. This will have an effect on water quality. And biotechnology will shape the future development of agriculture."

But Conklin remains optimistic. "I believe we will continue the social, economic and political society where we from time to time arrange the winners and losers," Conklin said. "In our society, most of the laws we passed do not make everyone a winner. But we immediately start to plan for future legislation so that the next time around the losers will benefit. That makes a marvelous system because no one loses all the time. Revolutions are born where one segment of society loses all the time," Conklin said.

Since agriculture has survived many problems in the past, Conklin believes it will continue to advance as far as we can see in the future. "I'm optimistic about agriculture's future, despite what you sometimes hear and see in the national media," Conklin said.

Dr. Bryce Jordon, president, Penn State University, said the land grant university, individuals and industry groups and state government were the reasons education, service and research are delivered to the industry called agriculture.

"At Penn State we are grateful to everyone who supports the university and the college of agriculture. PSU is the midst of a campaign to raise private funds to support our academic programs," Jordon said. "I can look over this group at the luncheon and see major contributors. For example. one major food producer in the state recently made a $1 million commitment to the campaign."

"In addition, we can be grateful to the dedicated men and women who comprise the faculty and staff at the college of agriculture. We have the best professional staff in the world," Jordon said. "And we are now seeing the results of the efforts of the General Assembly to provide new funding for the cooperative extension service. This event at Ag Progress Days brings all these groups together," Jordon concluded.

Dr. Lamartine Hood, dean who chaired the government luncheon, said we have a responsibility to tell the agriculture story outside the industry. "People who, for a lot of reasons, don't understand what agriculture is all about must be told what our industry means to the 12 million citizens in Pennsylvania. That's our educational challenge," Hood said.

The directors of the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore were concluding their Pennsylvania farm tour at Ag Progress Days. Bank president Gene Swackhamer presented a check to Dean Hood to provide electricity in the Pasto Museum. More than 150 historical and rare items donated by faculty, alumni and friends of the college are housed in the museum. On Tuesday, the tenth anniversary of the museum was celebrated.

Penn State Ag Progress Days provide one of the largest outdoor showcases of the university programs in agriculture technology in the East. Approximately 50,000 persons visited the event this year.

Dean Lamartine Hood, left, receives a check from Gene Swackhamer, President, Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore, as a gift to supply electricity to the Pasto Museum. The presentation was made during the Government Luncheon on noon Wednesday.

Ag Preservation Group

The group's other priorities include, in order of importance:

•affecting public policy toward farmland protection. Most of the organization's attention would be focused on municipal planning and development.

•agricultural economic development. The group would influence public policy, help enhance market opportunities, and expand agricultural diversity.

•environmental quality issues such as historic preservation and protecting the natural environment.

Lancaster Farmland Trust has expanded its Board of Directors to broaden the interests and skills of the Board. This will be helpful when establishing working committees.

Funds for the group's activities will come through participation in the state's farmland preservation program and the American Farmland Trust in Washington, D.C., and establishment of a trust fund.

Ag preservation bill

In other farmland preservation news, the ag preservation bill is due to be before the Senate in September when the chamber reconvenes. Earlier this summer the House and Senate approved separate bills, and in the interest of time, the Senate gutted the House bill and inserted Senate wording. The Senate approved this bill and returned it to the House where the representatives voted not to concur with the Senate ammendments.

When the Senate returns to session, it is expected to insist on its ammendment, at which time a conference committee composed of three senators and three represenatives will be formed to work out the differences.

"One of the major concerns is as to how money would be forthcoming to finance the program," stated Senator Noah Wenger (R-36). The House bill proposed issuing one $10-million bond per year for 10 years. On the other hand the Senate suggested issuing a $25-million bond and when three-fourths was committed, issuing another bond and so on.

"Our provision would keep funds flowing as needed," said Sen. Wenger. "With the House provision, the funds could be used up during the first part of the year, and there wouldn't be any more money until the next year."

Other discrepancies include whether control would be primarily at the state or county level and the inclusion of a 25-year contract options.

Once the conference committee hammers out the bill's differences, the members will report back to their respective chamber with their recommendations. At this point no ammendments can be made to the bill and the senators and representatives must hand in a straight "yes" or "no" vote.

"I don't see that the differences are insurmountable," commented Warren Lamm, chief of staff for Representative Samuel W. Morris (D-155). "I think we will have a bill signed by the Governor this fall."

Wenger concurred, adding "The state should have a program operative by 1989."

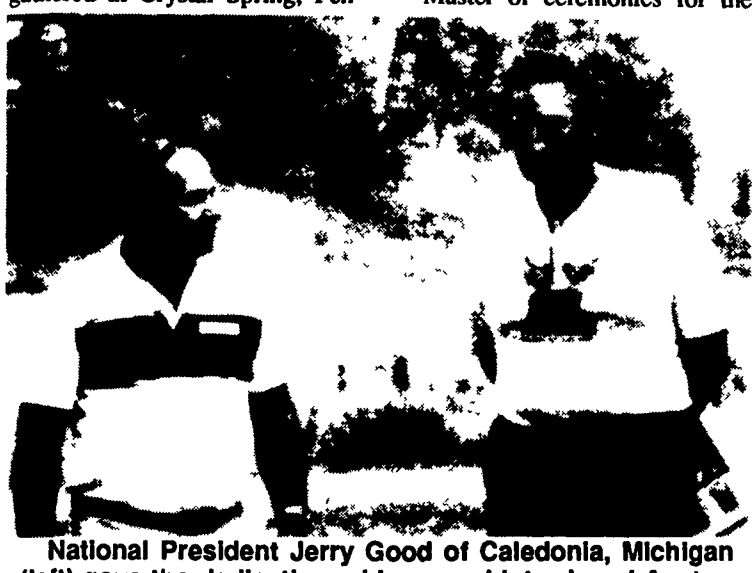
Red & White Breeders Dedicate New Office

CRYSTAL SPRING (Fulton) — On Saturday, July 23, over 200 Red & White breeders and guests gathered at Crystal Spring, Pennsylvania to dedicate the new National Office of the Red & White Dairy Cattle Association.

Master of ceremonies for the day was President Jerry Good of Med-O-Bloom Farms, Caledonia, Mich. Also in attendance were Vice-President Ron Smith, Mason, Mich. and five additional national directors. Overseas visitors were Bill and Ena Thompson and John and Josephine Williams from Australia. Mr. Thompson is Editor of a new international Red breeds publication, The Red Cow.

All funds for the new office were donated in a Building Fund Drive which started in 1984. In just 4 years, the staff was able to move into a new, debt-free office. Much credit is due to the many Red & White breeders, A.I. organizations and friends of the Red & White cow who contributed so generously to this project. The officers, directors and staff of the RWDCA are most grateful.

The morning was spent touring the new office, Jerry Good gave a dedication speech at noon and then everyone enjoyed a delicious chicken barbeque.



National President Jerry Good of Caledonia, Michigan (left) gave the dedication address and introduced Australian visit W. R. "Bill" Thompson, Editor of the International Red breed magazine, The Red Cow.

A large crowd enjoyed the delicious chicken barbeque prepared by the Bruch Creek Ruritans for those attending the National Red & White office dedication at Crystal Spring.

Penn State Creates New Dairy Major

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — Penn State College of Agriculture students will have more options to choose from with the creation of a new major in dairy and animal science.

A new dairy and animal science major, which replaces two former majors in dairy production and animal production, has four options -- dairy production-management; animal production-management, business and science.

"We are giving students more choices than they had before by providing the four options," says Thomas Merritt, chairman of the undergraduate program committee in the department of dairy and animal science. "These changes keep us in step with changes in industry and improve employment opportunities for our graduates. We are confident that the change will increase the demand for our students."

The dairy and the animal production-management options allow students to follow a course of study similar to the former majors in dairy production and animal production, he says. Students in this option will take concentrated courses in production, nutrition and agronomy.

"Students who enroll in the business option will have a good background in production, but they can emphasize courses such as accounting, agricultural economics and business law. These courses will better prepare students to work in agriculture-related industries," Merritt says. "The largest number of our graduates now go to work in industry and sales-related jobs, so we need to prepare them for those careers.

"Those in the science option will be prepared to pursue graduate study or go on to professional schools in veterinary and or human medicine. They will take more advanced biology and physiology courses than other students in the major, and have more emphasis on microbiology, chemistry and biochemistry."

Students who have already started at Penn State in the dairy or animal production majors will have the choice of continuing in the old majors or switching to the new major.

FARM FORUM OUR READERS WRITE

hours with nothing to show for it.

In June of 1987 there were 14,845 producers sending milk to plants in Federal Order 2. Last month, one year later, there are 13,954. I have to applaud the 959 dairy farmers who were smart enough to say they had enough. They are the ones that know deep down in their hearts that it really won't get better next year.

I don't want to give readers the wrong impression, but sometimes a few tears and a few biting remarks will stir up enough trouble to bring about some good-- the old addage "the squeaky wheel gets the oil" comes into play.

Let's not sit back on our haunches and take it on the chin when the 1985 Farm Bill expires. Every farmer in America knows that lower prices in the food industry are popular with the voters and the urban congressman & senators will do everything in their power to ensure that corporate farms survive and the family farm makes just enough to force himself to say it'll be better next year, thus keeping him in the business and creating a popular response from the voters.

The average American spends 33 cents out of every dollar to pay taxes but will only spend 16 cents to eat.

Why? Because the government is run on the tax money and they vote on their salary. We don't vote on ours, we rely on co-ops and ag leaders to convey our story.

What's my beef? The same people are advising congressmen and senators about the ag community today that were doing it 20 years ago. They were wrong 20 years ago and once again they are wrong today. We need better voices speaking for the farmer. The dairy industry determines what the rest of the farming industry's fate is. If the dairy industry flourishes, the beef and grain farmer's business flourishes, if they do better, the agriculture equipment dealer does better, etc. So why are we accepting pre-1970 wages? Why are we not calling our Congressman? Why aren't we squeaking? The time is now for $15 milk. The time is now for production quotas if necessary. The time is now to stop the rapid decline in family farms. The time is now to write or call your congressman. The time is now to get rid of the people that are promoting $12 milk during a drought when we should have been receiving $15 in the first place.

It takes each and every farmer's commitment to realize the objective of a fair price for our product. Let's not be the slaves any longer.

Let's take some action, look around, talk to your neighbor. Who knows, maybe next year we all will be able to buy the tractor we needed 10 years ago!

Union County West End Fair Dairy Show

MIFFLINBURG (Union) — The sixty-third Union County West End Fair held its dairy show on August 3, in Laurelton, Pensylvania. One hundred and twenty-six animals were registered for the show. Jarry Roth from Atlantic Breeding Cooperative in Lancaster served as the judge.

Crystal Knechel of Millmont showed the only Ayrshire at the show. The junior yearling purchased at the All-American Sale in Harrisburg last year was awarded the junior champion ribbon. Braden Heimbach of RD 1 Millmont showed the junior and senior champion Guernseys.

Twenty-eight Jerseys were shown by various exhibitors in the county. The junior champion of the Jersey breed was a senior yearling exhibited by Braden Heimbach. The reserve junior champion was an intermediate calf shown by Kevin Roush of Millmont. These two animals also were the 4-H junior and reserve junior champions. The FFA junior and reserve junior champions were both junior calves owned by Stewart R. Shoemaker and Douglas S. Boop of Millmont.

The senior champion and grand champion Jersey was a 4 year old cow owned by Robert Heimbach and Sons. The reserve senior champion, reserve grand champion and 4-H grand champion was a 3 year old owned by Amy Jo Sanders of RD 1 Millmont. Amy also showed the 4-H Reserve Grand Champion.

In the Holstein show Lumreek Holsteins exhibited the champion and reserve champion bulls. Lumreek Holsteins is owned and operated by Harry Davis and Jeff Benfer of Millmont.

The junior champion of the open and 4-H shows was an intermediate yearling shown by Gerald W. Boop Jr. The junior champion of the FFA show was a junior yearling shown by John Rishel of Mifflinburg. The reserve junior champion of the Holstein open show was shown by Lumreek Holsteins, of the 4-H show Gerald Boop Jr. and of the FFA show Douglas S. Boop.

Braden Heimbach led the grand champion Jersey into the winner's circle. Amy Sanders exhibited the reserve champion Jersey and captured the 4-H champion Jersey title.

The senior and grand champion of the Holstein show was a 6 year-old aged cow shown by San-Be Farms of Millmont. The reserve senior and reserve grand champion of the Holstein show was a 5-year old aged cow owned by Zi-We's Dairy Farm of Mifflinburg.

In the 4-H show the senior and grand champion was a 3 year old shown by John Rishel. The reserve senior and reserve grand champion was a 3 year old cow shown by Jonathan W. Boop of Millmont.

In the FFA Holstein show the senior and grand champion was shown by Jonathan W. Boop. The 3 year old Holstein was the reserve champion of the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show last September. The reserve senior and reserve grand champion FFA Holstein was a 5 year old aged cow shown by John Rishel.

John Rishel, Jonathan Boop, and Kevin Rishel were awarded fitting awards in the FFA Show. John Rishel, Jonathan Boop, and Douglas Boop were awarded

An Employer's Obligation to Disclose Information to the Public - PART II
John C. Becker
Associate Professor of Law

In a previous column I discussed some of an employer's obligation to disclose information to the public. For employers who are subject to OSHA's Hazard Communication Standard, there are additional requirements.

The first of these additional obligations requires an employer, or facility operator, to submit a copy of each MSDS to the state commission, the local committee and the local fire department if hazardous chemicals are present in amounts equal to or greater than 10,000 pounds, or extremely hazardous substances greater than or equal to 500 pounds, 55 gallons, or the threshold planning quantity, whichever is less. On October 17, 1989, MSDS's for all remaining hazardous chemicals will be submitted, regardless of the amount maintained at the facility.

The next additional requirement deals with reporting to the state commission, local planning committee and local fire department. Those employers or facility operators who file an MSDS must also file a chemical inventory form known as either a "Tier 1" or "Tier 2" form. The initial filing date of the inventory form was March 1, 1988 and the obligation continues annually thereafter. With the expansion of the MSDS filing requirement in October, 1989, filing of the chemical inventory form will also apply to those employers and facility operators. Expansion of OSHA's hazard communication regulations on May 23, 1988 will create the obligation for additional employers to file chemical inventory forms on March 1, 1989, the annual renewal date for all initial filings.

When selecting the report form to use, a "Tier 2" form can be used in place of a "Tier 1" form. At present, the state emergency response commission requests Pennsylvania employers and facility operators to use the "Tier 2" form to fulfill the reporting requirement. The Bureau of Worker and Community Right to Know in the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry will be the place where MSDS's and "Tier 2" inventory report forms will be filed to satisfy filing with the state commission.

Under EPA regulations, any person may obtain an MSDS from a specific facility by submitting a written request to the local planning committee. If an employer or facility operator has selected the "Tier 1" inventory report form, a "Tier 2" report may be requested by a state commission or local planning committee member acting in his or her official capacity, or if the request is limited to hazardous chemicals stored in amounts in excess of 10,000 pounds. In other situations, a request for a "Tier 2" inventory form may be made if the request includes a general statement of need. Such a situation might be a request by a private citizen for "Tier 2" report forms. When the request is received by a state commission or local planning committee, the statement of need will be evaluated and then forwarded to the employer or facility operator.

A final requirement of SARA deals with reporting requirements for release of toxic chemicals. This obligation is limited to certain employers and facility operators. To be subject to this requirement, an owner or facility operator must meet all of these guidelines:

The facility must have 10 or more full time employees.

The facility must be classed in one of the standard industrial classification codes from 20 through 39, as in effect on January 1, 1987.

The facility manufactures, processes, or otherwise uses a toxic chemical in excess of a threshold quantity of that chemical as set by regulations.

Threshold quantities of toxic chemicals vary according to activity that involves the product and the year in which it takes place. For example, facilities that manufacture or process a toxic chemical during 1987 are obligated to file a report if more than 75,000 pounds of the chemical was manufactured or processed. In 1988, this figure is reduced to 50,000 pounds and further reduced in 1989 and thereafter to 25,000 pounds. If a chemical is "otherwise used" at a facility the threshold amount is 10,000 pounds for any year.

The list of toxic chemicals to which this requirement applies was published in the Federal Register, Volume 52, No. 107.

Nitrates In Drought-Damaged Silage Can Harm Cows

NEWARK, DE. — Dairy farmers can make the most out of this year's drought-stricken corn crop by harvesting it as silage if they take certain precautions. Filling silos with drought-stressed corn can be a dangerous and difficult practice for two reasons, says University of Delaware Extension dairy specialist Dr. George Haenlein: first, because of the potentially high nitrate content of the silage; and second, because of the difficulty of packing stalks that are too dry.

Packing dry stalks is no problem with a trench silo. However, in an up-right silo, it may be difficult or impossible to remove air pockets created by pieces of stiff stalk if the corn isn't green enough. In such cases, farmers may need to (1) add a preservative to prevent development of mold in the presence of air, or (2) add weight in the form of water during filling and place a water-filled plastic bag at the top of the silo afterwards to compress the silage. But Haenlein says the weight of the bag isn't likely to affect air pockets in the lower part of the silo, so the danger of mold remains.

The potentially high nitrate content of drought-damaged corn is another problem for dairy producers. Nitrates interfere with the oxygen-absorbing capacity of the cows' blood. This may lead to secondary problems, particularly interfering with normal reproductive processes, resulting in poor ovulation and even abortion.

Haenlein says at low levels nitrates can be tolerated or adjusted, but at medium and high levels they become increasingly dangerous. In extreme cases of nitrate poisoning, cattle may die.

For these reasons, he cautions farmers using drought-stressed corn for silage to be alert for the presence of brown nitrous oxide gas seeping out of the silo and flowing down--the gas is heavier than air.

If a producer must feed high nitrate silage, the specialist says it must be diluted with other, safer feeds, such as hay and grain.

He suggests dairy farmers follow these guidelines when using drought-stressed corn in order to avoid nitrate problems in silage:

* If there is a rain, wait three to five days before chopping drought-stressed corn silage because nitrate levels are high in the plant directly after rain.
* Consider raising the cutterbar on the chopper 12 inches up the stalk. Nitrates are more concentrated in the lower part of the plant, so by doing this you can leave more nitrates in the field.
* Don't feed freshly chopped corn silage to cattle.
* Wait at least 30 days before feeding silage from the silo. The fermentation process will help dissipate the nitrates originally in the silage.
* Before feeding, have a sample of the silage analyzed QUANTITATIVELY for nitrate content. Remember, testing is better than guessing.

The ideal moisture content for making silage is 65 percent to 70 percent. Normally this occurs about the time the lower half of the leaves are browning and the tips of the kernels in the center of the ear have a black layer.

If drought-stressed corn has no ears, more than half of the leaves on the plant may be "fired." As long as the upper leaves are still green, Haenlein says the plant will probably respond to rainfall by recovering a normal moisture content of 70 percent to 75 percent. He suggests farmers apply the following squeeze test to get a general idea of silage moisture in the field.

Squeeze a handful of freshly chopped forage into a ball for 20 to 30 seconds. Quickly release your grip and watch what happens to the ball of forage. If the ball holds its shape and free juice is present, moisture content is probably more than 75 percent. If the ball holds its shape but very little free juice is present, estimate moisture content at 70 percent to 75 percent. If the ball falls apart slowly and there is no free juice, moisture is between 60 percent and 70 percent.

Jersey Parish Show Honors Go To Normandell Farm

BY BARBARA MILLER
Lycoming Co. Correspondent

WHITNEYVILLE (Tioga) — A diminutive 11 year old walked away with the grand champion trophy at the state's largest Jersey regional show held at Whitneyville on August 10, while her family captured the Premier Breeder and Premier Exhibitor awards.

At the third annual District IV Jersey Parish Show, Cathleen Norman, daughter of Ernest and Dorothy Norman of Normandell Farms, Liberty, won the grand champion award by showing her first 4-H project, a senior two-year-old named Normandell Speciality Sharon. Homebred by Cathleen's sister, Carolyn, Sharon's sire is Spring Run Speciality and her dam is Normandell Abe Shelly. Registered for the show were 132 Jerseys.

Normandell Farms, owned by Ernest and David Norman, Liberty, captured the premier breeder and premier exhibitor trophies which they won on other occasions of the show's three year history.

Shy Cathleen, whose only remark upon winning was, "I'm happy, I guess," has been showing dairy animals for three years as a member of the Country Farmers 4-H Dairy Club.

According to Cathleen's father, Ernest, Sharon placed third in state competition as a senior calf two years ago and won the reserve grand award at the open dairy show at Tioga Fair this year. She is currently producing 55 pounds of milk per day. He added that a sister of Sharon's, who placed first in the senior yearling class in the show this year, Normandell Duncan Sabrina, may have even more potential than Sharon.

Presently milking 60 head of their 130 Jerseys, the Norman family farms 200 acres of their 500-acre spread and uses much of the remaining acreage for pasture.

The reserve grand champion trophy went to Silas and Denise Kneller, Troy, for their entry, SHS St. James Merry Dasher, a senior two year old. Dasher is out of SHS MMC St. James and her dam is SHS SS Merry Dancer.

According to Denise, Dasher, who won the reserve grand champion award at the Troy Fair this year and the reserve junior champion award the year before, comes from a line of champions. Dasher's sister and mother have previously won grand championships at the Troy Fair and her granddam in Chester County has taken quite a few championships as well.

No novices to the showring, the Knellers have been showing cattle and accumulating ribbons and trophies for a number of years. Most recently they swept the Jersey competition at the Troy Fair by winning the grand and reserve grand awards as well as the premier breeder and premier exhibitor banners.

The Knellers farm 320 acres and milk about 40 Holsteins and 27 Jerseys. An avid Jersey fan noted for her active participation in several Jersey organizations, Denise hopes to eventually change the ratio of their herd to two thirds Jerseys and one third Holsteins.

The Junior Champion and Reserve Junior Champion awards were secured by sisters, Jackie and Michele Sparling, Mansfield, respectively. Jackie's senior calf, Silver-B Glorious Gal of AHR, took the judge's eye over Michele's summer yearling, Silver-B Lucky Sam of AHF.

Out of the same sire, Valley Stream Silver Beacon, the entries are of the same line on the dam's side, according to Jackie. "The grand dam to my calf is the dam to the reserve junior champion," she remarked. That same progenitor, she said, won first place as a three-year-old at the 1985 farm show.

Concerning her win, Jackie, voted a 1986 Keystone Farmer, states, "I'm proud of her. I bred her. Her dam is the first Jersey I've owned."

The girls are the daughters of Howard and Anne Lee Sparling, Mansfield, and are members of the Mansfield Chapter of FFA. They have been showing cattle for a number of years.

Twenty-year-old Jackie currently owns 19 registered Holsteins, two registered Jerseys, and one registered Brown Swiss. "I'm thinking of starting my own farm," she explains.

Sister, Michele, says she has taken the reserve junior championship before in the Whitneyville show and also lists an entry at Harrisburg that copped a reserve grand trophy. She has also won a grand in FFA competition.

Michele owns 11 cows, all Jerseys, she says, with the exception of one Holstein.

According to Denise Kneller, show chairwoman, the third annual District IV Jersey Parish Show was dedicated to the memory of recently deceased Tommy G. Noble "who was the first chairman of the District Show and encouraged and started many a 4-H youth on the road to Jersey breeding."

Dairy princesses helping with the event were: Bradford County Dairy Princess, Terri Packard; Tioga County Dairy Princess, Tery Kizer; and Tioga County Alternate, Bridget Callahan.

Judge for the show was Jim McCaffery of Delta, Pa.

Dairy Of Distinction Winners Get Together

ROCK SPRINGS (Centre) — More than a hundred dairy farm families got together in the Special Events Building here at Ag Progress Days Wednesday afternoon for a fraternal gathering of the Dairy of Distinction winners. State President Everett Newswanger told the group the event was planned not as formal meeting but to be bring together dairy farm families across the state to learn to know each other and to see pictures of the winning farms.

Lancaster Farming newspaper provides the film and an 11x14 color portrait of each winning farm. The state district groups take the pictures after the winning farms have been selected. Newswanger said the program, totally run by volunteers, is designed to recognize dairy farms with good appearances that consumers can equate with the source of dairy products they buy in the store. In addition, the program provides incentive for other farms to meet the standards set by the Dairy of Distinction program.

This year for the first time, the Pennsylvania program included the milk handlers sanitarium in the judging process. A letter was sent to each applicant's santiarium to ask if there was any sanitary reason why the farm should not be included in the program.

When this year's 94 winning farms were added to the 96 farms that were recognized as Dairy of Distinction farms last year, a total of 190 farms carry the recognition in Pennsylvania. Governor Robert Casey proclaimed Ag Progress Week as Dairy of Distinction Week and Agriculture Secretary Boyd Wolff brought greetings from the governor to the Dairy of Distinction winners.

Dr. Lamartine Hood, Dean at Penn State, also brought greetings from the university and congratulated the winners.

Sue Reynolds, who is now a deputy secretary of ag markets in New York State, was honored as the Person of Distinction for 1988. Reynolds was instrumental in starting the New York program and helped start the Pennsylvania program two years ago.

In addition to the color portrait, each farm receives a plaque for the farm office and a metal-like farm sign to be erected at the end of the farm lane. The plaques and signs are distributed by the local district. The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council and the Pennsylvania Milk Promotion program help sponsor the Dairy of Distinction program.

At the end of the meeting, all the Dairy of Distinction farm families got together for the above photograph.

New State Poultry Queen

mer, Lake Meade, East Berlin. She will be a junior this year at Penn State University where her major is Environmental Management.. During the interview session with program emcee Dennis Allen, a radio personality at WHVR-WTCR, Valerie related that her main emphasis in her studies is the handling of toxic wastes.

Valerie's other interests include several community projects, but she has had little time of anything else outside her summer internship with the Department of Environmental Resources this past summer. Along with her Queen titles Valerie received a check for $500.00 from the Adams County Poultry Association.

Selected as first runner-up in the contest was Lisa Overly, 20, daughter of Tom and Hedy Overly, Littlestown. Lisa will also be junior this fall at Penn State where she carries a major in Food Science and a minor in Poultry Science. Lisa has been the recipient of one of the Adams County Poultry Association's scholarships for the past two years.

Lisa feels that a minor in poultry science will help her convey the message of the benefits of the poultry industry to the consumer. Lisa is active in the Food Science Club at Penn State and a member of the Gamma Sigma Sigma National Service Sorority. As first runner-up, Lisa received a $250.00 award from the Adams County Poultry Association.

Second runner-up went to Kristen Mummert, Peepytown Rd., East Berlin. Kristin is actively involved in the poultry industry. She helps with the care and feeding of her parents, Wayne and Shirley Mummert's, 6000 poults and turkeys each summer. She is also a member of the Adams County 4-H Poultry Judging Team.

Kristin will be a junior this fall at the Bermudian Springs High School where she is a member of the marching, concert, and jazz bands and is on the yearbook staff. Kristin received a $100.00 award from the Adams County Poultry Association.

Serving as judges for this year's pageant were: Betty Rode, Former Commodity Queen Coordinator for the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture; Jodi King, Flock Supervisor for Perdue in Delaware; and Elwood Earhart, Feed Sales and Service, Quaker State Farms.

Wolff, Dum Address Franklin Holstein Club

BY BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

EDENVILLE — "How can we have a bull that is minus 2000 pounds on milk and plus two points on type?" Dennis Wolff asked the audience at the Franklin County Holstein Club Field Day August 2. "And how can a bull that transmits feet and leg problems be plus two points in type?"

Wolff explained that the Holstein industry is going to have to put more emphasis on functional type traits. Too much emphasis has been put on such factors as size, depth of body, spring of rib, esthetic lines, and smooth fore attachment, he said. Longevity factors should be number one in importance. The traits important in longevity are udder depth, teat placement, and foot and leg structures.

"Jersey breeders have put more emphasis on functional type," he continued. "This will make the Jersey cow more competitive. Jersey breeders have made tremendous strides. Holstein breeders should learn from the programs Jersey breeders have put in place."

"Cattle that are functionally correct will be in demand," Wolff concluded. "We have to look ahead to the future, not back at tradition."

Wolff is a Holstein breeder from Pen-Col Farms in Millville. He milks 500-600 registered and grade Holsteins. The farm has an embryo transplant program in which cows are flushed weekly.

Tom Dum, consultant for the National Holstein Association, spoke to the 200 people in attendance about milk pricing.

"There's a problem with the way we price milk in this country, he said. "The inefficient dairy farmers are already out of business. Now, the ones who are leaving are the ones who have had bad luck."

Dum advocates supply management, also called a quota system.

"We need to price our own product," Dum said. "We take a wholesale price for our milk, and everything we buy is retail. We need someone to step forward and get farmers to think one way. And we can't go through the existing farm organizations-they're always arguing with each other. We need to line up together and say YES to a quota system."

Dum, of Elliottsburg, told the audience about the unfair charges levied on dairy farmers concerning the milk surplus. "You pay three times," he said. "First, the dairy farmer pays income tax, just like everyone else, and part of this is used to support the military. Second, when the government buys dairy products to feed the military, they get these dairy products at a discount because they are called "surplus". And third, calling these products "surplus" effects the Wisconsin-Minnesota milk price downward, according to Dum.

Ken Raney of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association announced that between August 1 and November 30 any heifer between the ages of twelve and twenty-four months can be registered for $20 if the owner is a member of both the state and national Holstein associations.

The Field Day was held at Wilsoncreek Farm, operated by Dwaine and Kevin Brechbill. The brothers farm 150 acres and milk 45 registered Holsteins.

Activities at the Field Day included a judging contest. Wolff served as official judge.

Winners in the Senior Division were Ed Reichard, Keith Grove, and Ken Mellott. Junior Division (16 and under) winners were Toby Horsh, Damon Harwood, and Brian Reichard.

The Donald Upperman Surge dealership supplied milk for the event. Ice cream was provided by Franklin Feed and Supply Company. Production Credit, Pennfield Feeds and Paramount Feeds donated the tent.

30 YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

— Show steers went to 15 buyers at the Garden Spot Baby Beef Club show and sale at the Lancaster Stockyards on Wednesday. Big buyer of the sale was Gimbel's Food Plan of New York who paid $1.02 per pound for the Grand Champion.

Champion of the show was Blackie, a stocky Angus weighing 1,105 pounds. He carried off the purple ribbon for his youthful master, Billy Hackman, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis H. Hackman, Elizabethtown R#3. Bill, who will be in the eighth grade, plans to use the receipts from the sale of his steer to buy a saving certificate. When asked what he was saving for, Bill said that he planned to start farming, "But school comes first," his dad was quick to remind.

— Martin Witman, RD1 Marietta, placed sixth in level land plowing competition at Hershey on Wednesday. In competition for the Pennsylvania crown and the right to compete in the National contest, Witman made a score of 413 points.

HIGH PROTEIN SILAGE ADDITIVE

IF We Could Lower Your Cost To Produce...

COULD You Use The Extra Profit?

The primary benefit for treating corn silage with ammonia is reducing feed costs.

But, you also know that reducing feed costs do not always increase profits.

With a little understanding of ammonia-treated silage some university studies have shown not only lower feed costs but also higher production at the same time by using ammoniated silage in the feeding program.

See Martin's Ag. Service for Martin's Hi-Protein liquid ammonia silage additive as well as computer balanced feeding programs and sound feeding advice.

PA Seedmen Hold Summer Meeting

HERSHEY — Due to retirements in the next several years, the Pennsylvania State University agronomy teaching staff will have a 33 percent turnover, according to Dr. Al Turgeon. Addressing the Pennsylvania Seedmen's Association summer meeting here last week, Dr. Turgeon said that to look forward for six or seven years the turnover will equate to 50 percent of the faculty personnel. "This will cause us a lot of work to replace our staff, but it gives us a unique opportunity to make an impact on the future of our agronomy program."

Turgeon said that plant breeding and genetics need to be combined with biotechnology. "Biotech and practical plant breeding go hand in hand," he said. "It's not one or the other. Biotech gives the plant breeder better tools."

It's this concept that Turgeon said PSU is committed to enhance as they systematically rebuild the teaching staff when present professors retire.

Some dicussion center around the corn plots at Ag Progress Days. Water seems to be one of the uncontrolled variables each year. This causes problems in making a good plot presentation. Turgeon suggested that if irrigation equipment was the logical conclusion to remedy the problem, "we ought to do it." A poll of plot exhibitors will be taken for consensus on the problem.

Hugh Markham, chairman of the Certified Seed Promotion Committee, said that certified seed acreage dropped from 16,000 acres in 1982 to less than 9,000 acres this year. The high cost of raising certified seed in relation to the selling price was blamed for the decline in the Pennsylvania certified seed production. Markham noted that the reallocation of Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture funds from the certified seed program to control pesticides was a fact that should concern Pennsylvania seedmen. "I don't get the feeling that the seed certification program at PDA will get more emphasis," Markham said. "We are at a crossroad. We'll need to decide what's important and salvage our certification program in Pennsylvania."

After the formal meeting at the Convention Center, the group toured Agway's vegetable plots at Milton Hershey School.

FORAGE BLOWERS WHY YOUR NEXT ONE WILL BE A 600....

Ever Wonder why nearly every Silo you see has a Case IH blower next to it?? Here are a few reasons:

1. Reversible outer ring with a 2nd plate of steel welded in areas of highest wear.
2. Automatic air inlet (located under PTO shield) that adjusts air intake when those large plugs of forage feed into the blower. (Reduces plugs)
3. Both gauge wheels can be adjusted at the silo by a hand crank to level the blower.
4. Forage enters the blower at a 30° angle vs 90° on many competitive units. This reduces the need for the crop to change directions and reduces horsepower.
5. 8 - Cupped paddles throw the forage towards the center of the pipe as it travels upward. This reduces friction between the forage and the pipe, thus increasing capacity and reducing horsepower needs.
6. When forage enters our 60" rotor, an inside back sheet rotates with the paddles so the forage doesn't hit a stationary surface: result is less horsepower.
7. Our blower weighs over 1600 lbs.!! Compare this to other models weighing half as much. This weight means added strength and more years of efficient operation.

Many more advantages await you such as our low profile, extended length hopper for easy wagon pull in.
We invite you to visit with your neighbor who very likely owns a 600 or better yet, see your local Case IH dealer!!

Lana Holland: A Goal-Oriented Teen Who Wears The Maryland Dairy Princess Crown

BY BETH HUBER
Maryland Correspondent

POCOMOKE CITY — Fulfilling a life long dream is exactly what 17-year-old Lana Holland was able to do when she was crowned Maryland's 1988 State Dairy Princess.

Growing up on a farm on Maryland's lower shore in Pocomoke City, away from the famous vacation spot of Ocean City, and the corporate world of Washington, D.C. has enabled Lana to become a young woman of many talents.

Following in her parents' and two older brothers' footsteps, Lana has quite a list of accomplishments, many of which were gained academically and through 4-H activities. Lana's parents, Ken and Linda, operate a 1,200-acre dairy farm with Lana's uncle, Wayne. Milking 200 Holsteins would make one think that there is not much time for anything else, but the family is very active in dairy-related activities.

On the family farm, Ken is the herdsman while his brother, Wayne, is in charge of the crops. Along with Lana's brothers, Dan, a college senior, and Dave, a college junior, they are able to maintain a herd average of 17,000 pounds of milk and 610 pounds of fat. Lana helps out when needed with feeding calves and during the summer months she is in charge of milking the herd every other night. Linda also works as a job placement counselor at Woodbridge Business Institute in Salisbury, Maryland.

Four-H is a commonly heard word in the Holland household, with everyone in the family being involved in the organization at one time or another. Ken was a leader for 13 years in Worchester County, and Linda was a member in Carroll County while growing up, and later a leader for 10 years in Worchester County. Dan and David were also members, with David being the livestock superintendent for their county fair last year. Lana has been invovled with 4-H for the past eight years in both the dairy club and LFD club, (Learn, Fun, and Do).

While in 4-H Lana has participated in a variety of projects, which hold many interesting memories for her. One involves showing a dairy cow when she was twelve. She was to show a two-year-old. Not just any two-year-old, but one that had not been halter broken. Despite difficulties showing Glad-Mar Kennedy Cindy, a Sleepy Hollow Kennedy daughter, she was named the area champion. Later, in Lana's 4-H career, she wrote a speech about this cow, "1255, My Lucky Number," (1255 was the cow's tag number).

Another interesting memory of Lana's is owning a Jersey. Despite being a daughter of a Holstein breeder, Lana had a desire to own a Jersey calf. This desire stemmed Lana enjoys playing the piano in her spare time.

Linda and Lana have a very close mother-daughter relationship they are pictured here looking over clippings acquired from being named the 1988 dairy princess.

The older one gets the faster time seems to pass. The days slip by and one has to pause to decide if it is Tuesday or Wednesday. As a child it took forever for a birthday to come or Christmas to arrive with presents. But now it seems as though Labor Day will be here before I'm ready for it.

Time has a tendency to separate families unless one works very hard to prevent it from happening. As children grow up and move away from home, they no longer move to the next farm as I did but rather travel out of state wherever the jobs take them.

We had a family picnic recently and were rather disappointed at the turnout. Only four of the 19 first cousins attended. Of course many had a good reason such as the hundreds and thousands of miles they would have had to travel while others simply do not seem interested in "family."

As times goes by we not only have children to keep track of but also grandchildren. I fear that some of them will never get to know each other. Long ago my mother often told me which of my neighbors were second or third cousins but now some second cousins in my family might not even ever meet.

Thank goodness there are telephones and so there is no good excuse for not keeping in touch. And, if you are like me, you write many letters during the year. Often I will include photos and newspaper clippings that I think will interest the recipient.

Lana Holland

from Lana's dairy judging experience. She enjoyed judging but was not accurate on anything but Jerseys. This led Lana to want a brown "deer like," bovine. Her father and brothers questioned where this Jersey would be kept on the farm so it would not get "pushed around by the Holsteins," in the end, Lana convinced them to buy a Jersey in Delaware. Bambi, as the calf came to be called, did well for Lana in both the fitting and showing portion of the dairy shows. Lana enjoyed showing a smaller animal than the big Holsteins she was accustomed to. To this day there is no question as to where Bambi stays on the farm because she is the one who pushes the Holsteins around despite her size.

Lana's public speaking career not only included speeches about cows but also presentations on two other interests, music and cats. For relaxation, Lana enjoys playing the piano. She has taken piano lessons for a number of years and it shows, as she is an accomplished musician. While in high school Lana played for graduation, chorus, and jazz band as well as playing for drama presentations. Lana takes her music study very seriously, and will be taking that thought to college with her in the fall, even though she is undecided on what her major will be.

Along with being an accomplished musician, Lana is also athletic. While in high school, Lana was active on the softball and hockey teams. As the hockey team coach, she led her team to the state championship. Currently, Lana works as a lifeguard at a local pool which has kept her busy this summer.

Being crowned Maryland's new dairy princess is not the only crown Lana has worn. In 1987 she was Miss Pocomoke.

Living on a dairy farm does limit the amount of travel one does for leisure, but Lana overcame that obstacle by becoming active in school functions. One of the highlights in Lana's high school career was going to Europe with her foreign language club. This enabled her to tour Paris and Madrid. As a high school senior, Lana was chosen to represent her high school in Maryland's capital, Annapolis. For two weeks Lana stayed with a host family and assisted delegate Mark Pilchard in running errands and doing paperwork. This program enables high school seniors to actively participate in Maryland's government.

At the age of 17, Lana could not have been able to achieve many of her goals without her family backing her. Lana, the only daughter, feels very close to her mother. Lana said, "I can count on Mom to pick up the pieces if I see I can't get something done or if I need help. "It was from watching Mom 10 years ago as a dairy princess chairman, that I decided that some day I was going to be the Maryland dairy princess." Lana saw that much work was involved and that it was challenging, a responsibility she gladly tackled.

When asked what she felt about being named the states' new princess her reply was, "Honored," and that, "it really didn't hit me until the morning after the contest, I had to pinch myself to see if it was real." An event Lana looks forward to attending as dairy princess is a Baltimore Orioles baseball game, in which she will get to throw the first ball and meet Cal Ripken, a player and promoter of milk for MAMMA. She will also be attending a variety of breeding meetings, promoting her "magic potion" to elementary school groups as well as attending fairs.

Lana Holland is certainly a goal-oriented teenager who will be setting an example for other young females. Many of the young dairy farmer's daughters who see Lana promoting her "magic potion" throughout the coming year, just might set a goal for themselves to become a state dairy princess, just as Lana Holland did a few years ago!

Beef: More For Your Money

HARRISBURG (Dauphin) — While the nationwide drought has created real problems for farmers and driven up prices of many food products, consumers can get "more for your money, by buying beef this summer," says Bob Coleman, executive director of the Pennsylvania Beef Council.

With this year's drought, cattlemen moved many more cattle to market early. U.S. production of beef was up four percent in May and another three percent in June over 1987. At the same time, production of all red meats in May was up eight percent over 1987 and June production was seven percent greater than a year earlier. "As a result of these increased supplies, pressure has been put on beef prices which dropped as much as 12-13 percent," Coleman says.

"As drought conditions gradually ease, the situation for cattlemen is getting better and prices should continue moving upward. So smart consumers may want to buy beef and beef products now, stocking up for the summer. This will save them money, and potentially help speed the recovery for prices for cattle at market."

Prices for many farm commodities are forced upward in a drought situation. With fruits, vegetables and grain products, the direct effect of a drought is a cutback in supply, which drives consumer prices up. Other farm product prices may increase because farmers' costs of production increase. But the situation for cattlemen is a little different.

As the cost of feeding cattle increases, cattlemen may take animals to market early, thus cutting their costs of production. At the same time, this action at least temporarily increases supplies of beef available to consumers and forces prices down.

BACK HOME

-By Michelle S. Rodgers

Berks Extension

Home Economist

BY MICHELLE S. RODGERS
Extension Home Economist

Hand in hand you see them traveling through the mall. Some are happy and excited, laughing while they juggle packages, while others look frazzled, their faces tear streaked. It's back to school shopping time. Which picture best depicts your shopping trip?

My childhood back to school shopping trips were enjoyable and memorable. Probably my mother and I were the original designers of the "shop 'til you drop" slogan. Mom designed one day to shop with each child. And, those shopping experiences proved to be good wardrobe training. Parents can use these and other occasions as opportunities to guide children into a lifetime of successful wardrobe planning and decision making.

Although most children do not identify clothing as an element of self-expression until grades six or seven, they let parents know what they like and don't like to wear long before that. By two years of age a child will express color and texture preferences. These preferences are the beginning of a child's individual style. Although later influenced by peers, a child's sense of dressing flair begins at home. That's not to say that there won't be a time of fads, but a recognition of flattering colors, good design, and high-quality fabrics and workmanship can be cultivated early and nurtured. The understanding of good appearance is deeply rooted and may be easier to learn as a child than as an adult. Also, the understanding of a clean, neat appearance accomplished with a basic mix and match wardrobe will be instrumental in meeting clothing budgets now and in the future.

Here are a few tips to make sure that your shopping experiences are cheerful rather than tearful. One stop shopping is the ideal. Look for a store that reflects both of your tastes and patronize it regularly. If you don't have one favorite place, then you might benefit by doing some preview shopping. Note stores that have the kinds of things you and your child are interested in and at your price range. Especially with younger children, plan to show them a few items then allow them to make the choice. This is not as overwhelming as choosing from a rackful and you get your shopping completed within the attention span of your child.

Shop for major purchases (coats, dresses, shoes) at the beginning of the season when the selection is best. You are more likely to get what you want and you will stand a better chance that your child will be more willing to wear them all season. Shop the sales for basics such as underwear, play clothes, and accessories.

Take into consideration your child's favorite colors. Children enjoy wearing clothes that have colors they like. Keep in mind that children look best in medium intensity rather than light pastels or electric hues.

Accessories can be a great way to liven up jeans and T-shirts. Suspenders, ribbons, colorful stretch pants may add a special look to a basic mix and match wardrobe.

If your child insists on expensive designer labels, you may want to suggest that your child help use his or her allowance to purchase these items. The result may be better care of the clothing and an understanding of the costs involved. As a child gets older, you may want to shop together for some basics, then allow your child to spend a certain amount of dollars on their own adding to the basic wardrobe.

By discussing how and why separates go together, how to match appropriate clothes to the occasion, and items that lasting wear, you can build life-long shopping skills. In my childhood, after a shopping trip and a modeling display for dad, we laid our clothing on the bed and talked about the mix and match choices and where we would wear certain items. To this day, I often come home from shopping, lay out certain garments and confirm my mix and match possibilities.

Additionally, you may want to involve your children in selecting what to wear. Remember to praise your children when they look good in something they selected. Tell them why a particular piece of clothing looks good on them. This helps reinforce individuality and establishes criteria for future purchases.

I must admit that buying and selecting clothing for now one-year-old Elise has been fun for me. However, in days to come, I'm sure we will have to work it out together, although we're already off to a good start. On most mornings, Elise is held up to the closet of play clothes and whatever outfit she grabs at is usually her selecton for the day (or at least one of the outfits that she'll go through that day). And, of course, I've already conditioned her to the fine art of loving to shop. I'll probably be sorry later!

Happy shopping. I'll look for more smiling faces in the mall!

Heaps Of Tomato Recipes

Red, ripe juicy tomatoes—the perfect ingredient for soup, appetizer, dip, salad, pie, or the entree.

Slated as a fruit, but generally more adaptable to vegetable dishes, tomatoes offer variety to the innovative cook. Use them fresh, cooked, or preserve them by canning or freezing, and you'll find tomatoes come to the rescue whenever you'll in a rut with meal planning.

Enjoy their flavor and color now, but before autumm frost, pick them green and bake a green tomato pie. It offers a whole different flavor for pie lovers.

For the industrious and if your garden is overrun by bushels of tomatoes, try canning catsup or spaggetti or pizza sauce. It may be time consuming, but how thankful you will be to see those gleaming jars, filled with tomatoes goodness, setting on your shelf just waiting to be used when you need them.

Simple Way To Add Sizzle

DENVER (Co.) — "A Simple Way to Add Sizzle," is the 1988-89 theme which is heating up to reach new heights in lamb sales and increase consumer awareness on the ease of preparation. Beginning September 1, retailers can create year-round "sizzle" by featuring versatility, variety and value of fresh American lamb for its customers. The fall portion of this campaign is "Make Dinner Matter."

Research shows that the light to medium lamb users would serve lamb more often if they had simple, easy to prepare recipes. To target these consumers ASPC focused "A Simple Way to Add Sizzle" on providing consumers with quick and easy recipes which will be attached right to the package of a specific lamb cut. In addition to recipes, a instant redeemable cents-off coupon for a recipe ingredient will be attached to the package during the fall campaign. Leading national brands such as Lawry's seasonings, Ocean Spray Cranberries, Kikkomen Soy Sauce, Holland House Cooking Wine and Lea & Perrins sauces are featured. All recipes featured on lamb chops, steaks, roasts and other various cuts of lamb take less than 30 minutes to prepare.

Consumer awareness will build as lamb becomes known as being easy and quick to prepare. Consumers will be informed about this promotion and fresh American lamb by television, cable and national print media advertising.

Retailers will establish strong, profitable year-round lamb sales by merchandising cuts of meat properly and maximizing display usage. Materials such as channel strips, case strips, case dividers will make a display easy for shoppers to locate.

In addition to the recipes attached to the package of lamb, simple and creative lamb recipe leaflets will be available for consumer convenience and variety. "Fresh American Lamb" logo stickers are provided in addition to advertising slicks to help meat ads and lamb sales "sizzle."

ASPC's lamb marketing team conducts three seasonal promotional campaigns that are available for retailers to maximize lamb sales.

Save More Than Half Your Seed

MORE SEED GERMINATES ...YOU GET A POSITIVE CATCH

With a Brillion Sure-Stand agricultural seeder you sow all seed within the top ½ inch of the soil... uniformly, accurately... in a firm well-worked seedbed where moisture comes up from below and the seed is close to plant nutrients. In this way every seed has a chance to grow. You can predict good stands of grasses and legumes with seeding rates often cut to nearly half of the rates previously used. In many cases, the savings in seed alone will pay for a Sure-Stand seeder with just a few days' usage.

Don't risk another crop failure. Don't settle for half a stand. Depend on the Brillion to produce a "Sure-Stand" time after time.

HOW FISH BREATHE UNDERWATER

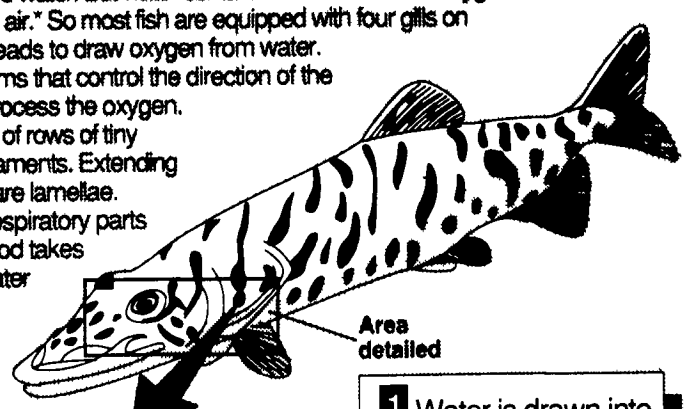
Fish breathe by taking oxygen from water and releasing carbon dioxide--as humans do above water. But water contains about 1/30th the oxygen as the same volume of air.* So most fish are equipped with four gills on each side of their heads to draw oxygen from water. Gills are like tiny dams that control the direction of the flow of water and process the oxygen. Gills are composed of rows of tiny extensions called filaments. Extending from each filament are lamellae. Lamellae are the respiratory parts of the gill where blood takes oxygen from the water and releases carbon dioxide.



1 Water is drawn into the mouth and pumped out through the gills.

2 Filaments along gill arches sift water and channel it into canals formed by lamellae.

3 Blood flows through lamellae, takes oxygen from water and releases carbon dioxide into the water.

HOW WORKER-HONEYBEES STING

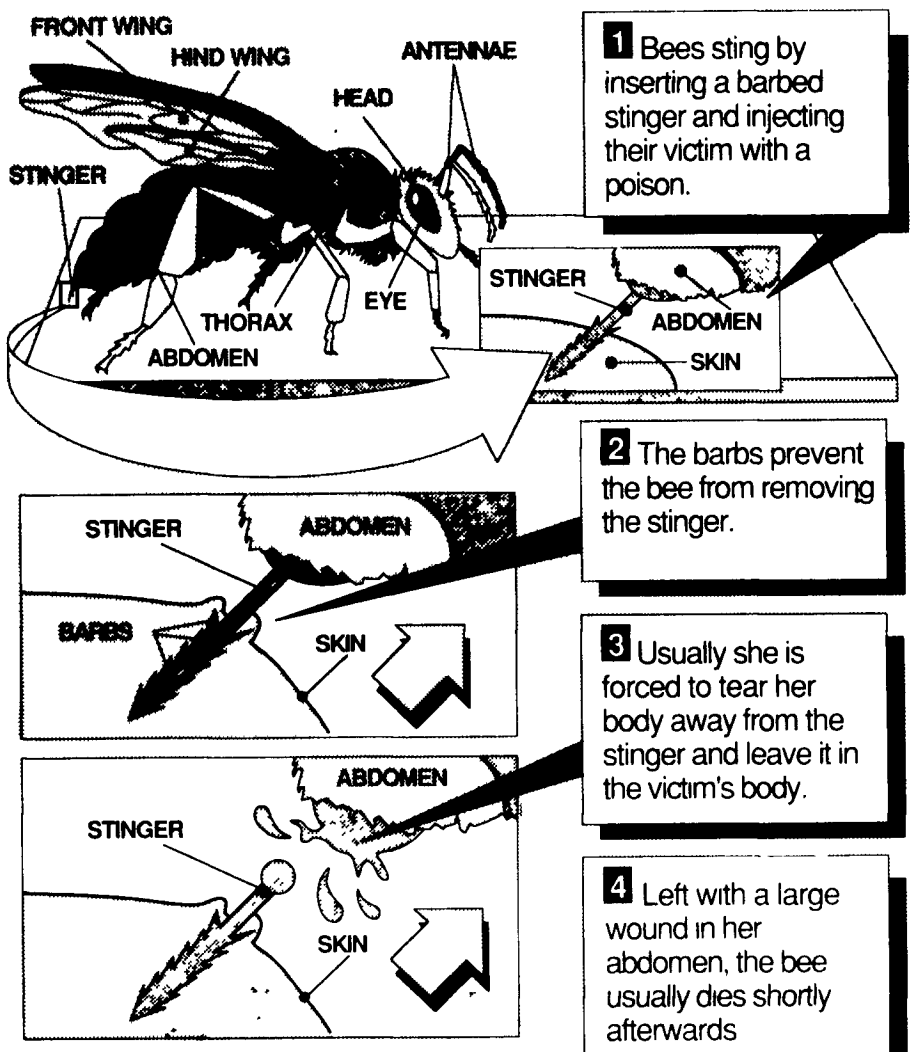
Bee stings are one of man's most feared interactions with insects Bees, however, are not inherently aggressive and sting only to defend themselves In fact, bees are the only insect that produces food (honey) for themselves and humans Bees are very enterprising and totally committed to their hives. In fact, most of the bees that humans encounter are called "worker bees." All worker bees are females that gather food for the hive, feed younger bees and turn nectar into honey. And, as illustrated below, they fight to the death to defend themselves



1 Bees sting by inserting a barbed stinger and injecting their victim with a poison.

2 The barbs prevent the bee from removing the stinger.

3 Usually she is forced to tear her body away from the stinger and leave it in the victim's body.

4 Left with a large wound in her abdomen, the bee usually dies shortly afterwards

HOW TORNADOES WORK

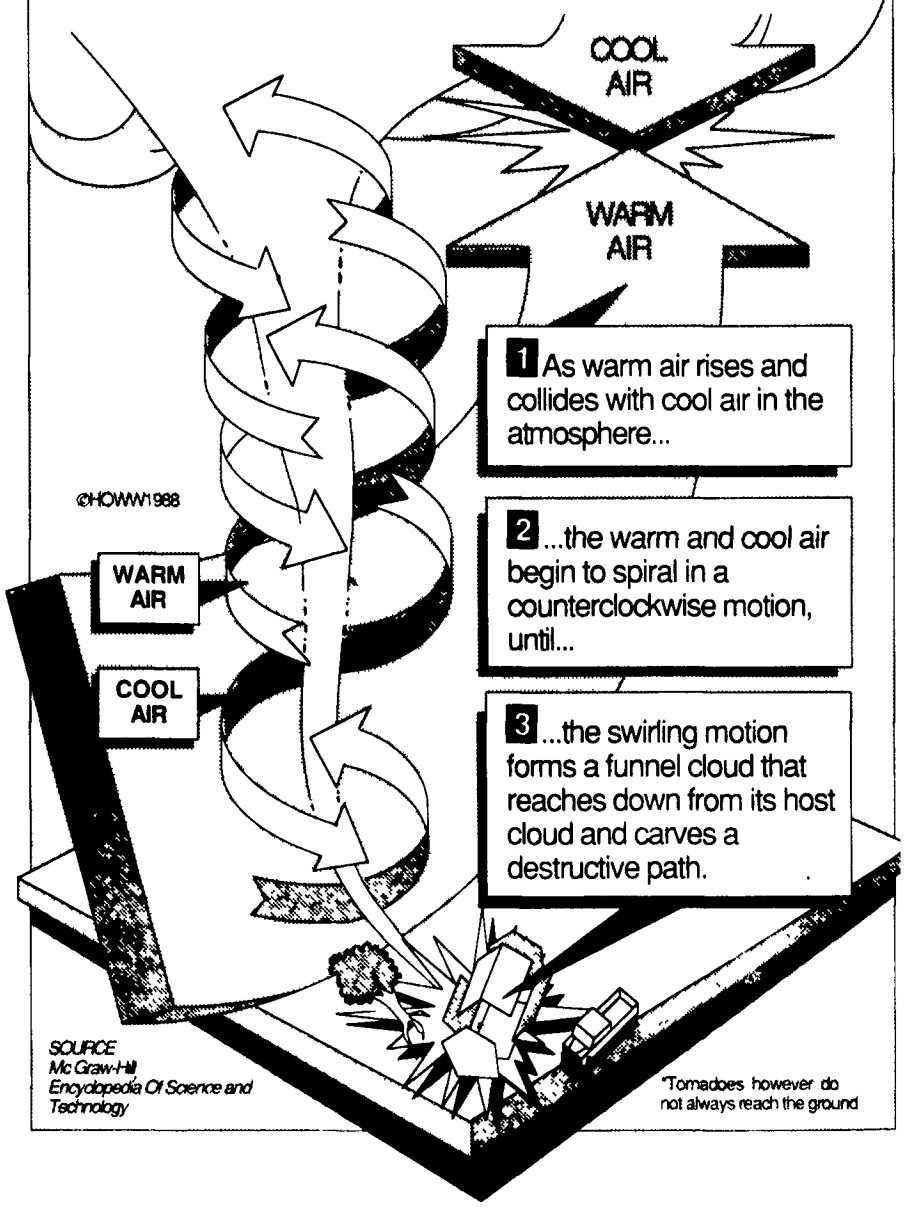
Tornadoes* are violent wind storms that form at the bottom of thunderstorm (cumulonimbus) clouds. Rising, warm, moist air collides with cool, dry air in the atmosphere in a turbulent, counter-clockwise motion (in the northern hemisphere). Winds inside tornadoes can reach speeds of 400 miles per hour and the spiral can reach 30-300 feet in diameter Despite high wind speeds, tornadoes move forward at only 10-25 miles per hour



1 As warm air rises and collides with cool air in the atmosphere...

2 ...the warm and cool air begin to spiral in a counterclockwise motion, until...

3 ...the swirling motion forms a funnel cloud that reaches down from its host cloud and carves a destructive path.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

No. This was just not possible.

I'm not old enough - or at least don't usually feel old enough - to grapple with this lifetime milestone.

But there it was, all spelled out in black and white: "It's hard to believe that it's been 25 years since we graduated."

Hard to believe, indeed. The Class of '63. Born in '45, leading wave of the postwar Baby-Boom flood, washing across the nation's sociological structure, and tumbling in its wake established demographic patterns, traditions, and lifestyles.

Now, here it was, a quarter-century after our high school graduation. And, as we have every five years, we gather for a few brief hours to laugh and reminisce, share pictures and problems, and compare graying and/or less hair, added pounds, and general satisfaction with our lots in life.

Notification first came while snow still covered the ground and freezing winds whipped south from the northern pole (hard to remember that, isn't it?). A night of reunion in August sounded so far away.

Now, so quickly, it's history. And, I don't remember when an evening passed so fleetingly and enjoyable away.

"Gosh, you haven't changed at all" was overheard frequently in snatches of conversation. But, of course, we all have, some are to very lesser degrees, and a few to the extreme where we indiscreetly (we hoped) took sidelong glances through the subdued lighting to read nametags.

Many of us share the bond of children in college or recently married. Some proudly mention grandchildren. A few are parenting toddlers.

Our careers represent a true cross-section of employment available across our great land. We are truckers and teachers, vice-presidents and foremen, secretaries and social workers, real estate specialists, homemakers, management specialists, consultants, independent businesspersons, and at least one judge. A personal friend and classmate instructs midwifery at a prestigious hospital in Philadelphia.

Some of us have scattered to homes and careers in Florida and Michigan, Utah and Texas, and the border states surrounding our Commonwealth. Several are scattered across the state. By and large, however, a majority of our hundred and eighty have stayed within the boundaries of our beautiful York County.

A dozen of us married classmates; only six remain wed to their classmate sweethearts.

Two of us - The Farmer and I - remain the only full-time farmers. And that simply mirrors general sociological changes in these two dozen-plus years.

For it was the era of our schooling years which witnessed the beginning of conversion of our rural farmland areas to crops of high-ranchers, townhouses, shopping malls and industrial parks. Soon after our graduation the course in Future Farmers was terminated permanently.

We are, perhaps, more open to one another now than we were during the peer-pressure, circles-of-friends, years of high school. Age and experience have diminished those barriers which divided us into groupings by neighborhood, major studies, activities and interests which inevitably result in every class.

Sadly, four of our number have died. Their memory, especially enhanced by such a significant occasion as a twenty-fifth reunion, is a poignant reminder of the rapidly passing seconds ticking off each of our mortal lives.

For probably numerous reason, we've lost touch with maybe a tenth of our number. Some still live locally; other's lives may have carried them far distant. Sad, too, that only about a third of us could be there. For no doubt a myriad of reasons, many were prevented from or chose not to be part of this gathering of memories.

They were missed.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

EDITOR'S NOTE: Joyce Battcher is on vacation. This is a repeat of a readers' favorite column.

Quiche makes a light, inviting summertime entree. Serve it with fresh fruit and muffins for brunch or with a tossed salad, crunchy rolls and a light dessert for supper.

For cool, fast cooking, cook quiche in your microwave. It tastes and looks as good as the traditional oven-baked version, but it's ready for eating sooner and your kitchen stays cool.

Typically a quiche — a non-sweet custard pie — is baked in a pastry crust. For microwaving, the crust must be microwaved or baked before the filling is added. If not precooked, the crust would remain undone towards the center.

Heating the milk or cream for a microwaved quiche speeds cooking and helps insure doneness of the filling. Microwave milk or cream until steaming hot, but not boiling. If your microwave oven has a temperature probe, use it for heating the milk to 180 degrees.

Quiche is usually microwaved on a low power setting, otherwise, the delicate eggs and cheese become tough and rubbery around the outside edges before the center is done. If your microwave as a Medium High setting (70 percent power, about 400 watts), use it for quiche. With a small microwave where wattage output is 400, use High power and the recipe's timings for Medium-High.

If your microwave only has High and Defrost, start microwaving quiche on High and finish on Defrost (usually Medium, 50 percent power, 325-350 watts). Microwave on High until the edges are set. (This usually takes 4 to 6 minutes). Then gently stir outside cooked edges to center and more uncooked part to the outside edges. This speeds cooking and insures doneness of the center without overcooked edges. Smooth the top and continue microwaving on Medium until center is barely set.

Covering quiche during microwaving holds in heat, allowing for more even and faster cooking. Either waxed paper or plastic wrap works well. For quiche that contains lots of cheese, plastic wrap is best because it doesn't stick to the cheese.

Quiche continues to cook after microwaving, so it should be cooked until barely set in the center and allowed to stand covered at least 5 minutes; 10 to 15 minutes is ideal. Quiche is best served warm — not hot — so it can stand while you're microwaving a vegetable or preparing another part of the meal.

Quiche is an excellent food to make ahead and reheat for serving. To reheat a whole quiche, cut it into wedges and arrange edges, about a half-inch apart, on a microwave-safe, round serving plate. Cover loosely with plastic wrap and microwave on Medium for 4 to 5 minutes (rotating plate once) or until quiche feels warm. For one slice (⅛ of pie), place a wedge on a microwave-safe plate; cover loosely with waxed paper. Microwave on Medium 1-1½ minutes or until warm, but not hot. Check after 1 minute.

Today's recipes give you two choices. First, is the traditional Quiche Lorraine, a rich creamy custard made with Swiss cheese and half-and-half. The filling is accented with bacon and cooked in a pastry crust. Paprika adds the finishing touch.

For faster preparation and less calories and fat, there's Crustless Quiche. Still rich tasting, it's made with evaporated skim milk, low-fat cheese, lean ham and without the calorie-laden bottom crust. Crumbled, canned French fried onions sprinkled on after cooking add a lovely golden brown appearance.

Quiche Lorraine

1 (9-inch) uncooked pastry crust
Worchestershire sauce (optional)
1½ cups half-and-half
4 large eggs
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
8 slices cooked bacon, crumbled
Paprika

Have crust in microwave-safe pie plate. Prick bottom and edges well with fork. If desired, brush top edges with Worchestershire sauce to give attractive browned appearance. Microwave (High) 3 to 5 minutes, rotating pie plate and watching carefully during last part of cooking. Pastry is done when top looks dry and blistered and feels firm. Set aside.

Measure milk in microwave-safe 1-quart measure. Microwave (High) 2-2½ minutes or until steaming hot. (If using probe, set at 180 F.) Add eggs, one at a time, beating with rotary mixer or whisk after each addition. Beat in flour. Stir in cheese and crumbled cooked bacon. Pour into crust. Cover loosely with plastic wrap. Microwave (High) 4 minutes; gently stir uncooked center to edges; smooth top and sprinkle with paprika. Re-cover loosely. Continue microwaving on Medium (50 percent power, 325-350 watts) 7 to 10 minutes or until mixture is set, rotating dish as necessary for even cooking. Let stand 5 to 10 minutes before serving. Cut into wedges to serve. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Each serving — ⅛ of pie: 310 calories, 12g protein, 24g fat, 13g carbohydrate, 401mg sodium, 157mg cholesterol.

Using Medium-High power: Microwave on Medium High (70 percent, about 400 watts) 5 minutes stir, smooth top, sprinkle with paprika and re-cover as above. Continue microwaving on Medium-High 6 to 9 minutes, rotating dish as necessary for even cooking.

Crustless Quiche

1 can (2.8 ounces) French fried onions, coarsely crumbled
1 cup diced lean ham
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded part-skim Mozzarella or low-fat cheese
4 eggs
1 can (13 ounces) evaporated skim milk
⅛ teaspoon hot pepper sauce

Sprinkle half can of crumbled onions in 9-inch microwave-safe pie plate. Top with ham and cheese. Beat together eggs, milk, and hot pepper sauce until smooth. Pour egg mixture over onions, ham and cheese. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave (High) 5 minutes; gently stir uncooked center to edges; smooth top and re-cover. Continue microwaving on Medium (50 percent power, 325-350 watts) 8 to 10 minutes or until mixture is set, rotating dish as necessary for even cooking. Top with remaining crumbled onions. Cover with foil, not letting it touch surface of quiche. Let stand, covered, 10 minutes to finish cooking. Cut in wedges to serve. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Using Medium-High power: Microwave on Medium High (70 percent, about 400 watts) 6 minutes; stir, smooth top and re-cover as above. Continue microwaving on Medium-High 7 to 10 minutes, rotating dish as necessary for even cooking.

Each serving — ⅛ of pie: 208 calories, 15g protein, 13g fat, 9g carbohydrate, 470mg sodium, 140mg cholesterol.

Berks County Extension Home Economist Talks About The Challenge Of The '80's: Balancing Home And Work

BY LOU ANN GOOD

MANHEIM — Mother, columnist, pastor's wife, and extension home economist are a few words that describe Michele Rodgers. Lump them all together and you know, she is one busy woman.

How does she calmly and adequately handle all these responsibilities?

"I'm big on being organized and I'm good at list making," she answers.

Perhaps her research to complete her master's thesis, "Role Strain of Females in Dual Provider Families," enabled her to get a firm grasp on handling stress. Michele said, "The systematic random survey I did for the study opened my eyes to see how fortunate I am."

That means, she has "an exceptional husband who, although not organized, is good at following the lists I make."

Plus she highly values her job as Berks County extension home economist. Those positions are rare and one she probably could not regain if she took a few years off for mothering."

"It's a big decision and a personal one," Michele said of her decision to continue working after the birth of Elise who celebrates her first birthday this week.

"I really miss her while I work," Michele said as she fondly watched Elise playing. "But we have a wonderful child care situation. The woman who watches Elise is wonderful. I see her thriving and I feel good about it. The babysitter stimulates her during the day and although I'm tired when I come home from work, I have enough energy to give her time," she added facetiously, "but not enough time for housework."

Consequently, Michele has a cleaning woman every other week. She admits, "My standards changed. It was hard to give up keeping things spotless, because I had been raised in a family where we scrubbed everything from the attic to the basement." She's trying to find a happy medium.

"I'm never too tired to play with Elise," Michele said. But being a working mom means there are adjustments and inconveniences. "I miss sewing," Michele said as she finds it too frustrating with an inquisitive one-year-old.

Basically Michele and her husband Steve follow task sharing, which means they each take responsibility to do the chores they enjoy and do well. Michele said her experience and the survey show, "The greater the task sharing the less strain."

Presently, Michele is developing workshops that will focus on balancing work and family, management and time sharing. She has several workshops tentatively scheduled for the fall at a bank that will pay their employees to take the class. She said, "Many employers are willing to work along with their employees because they know such classes benefit the work environment. The old-fashioned theory that employees forget their families when they enter the workplace simply is not true," Michele stressed. "Employers recognize that fallacy and want to help enable their people to do a better job."

In keeping with the theme of balancing work and family responsibilities, Michele has also written leaflets to be inserted in employees paychecks.

Since the early '80s, Michele has been writing the "Back Home" column that appears biweekly in this paper. Last year, she temporarily stopped it while she completed her master's degree at Penn State University. Michele recalls that those hectic months were no picnic. For three semesters, she commuted weekly between her Manheim home and the University campus. She joked, "Weekly, my sister made dinner for my husband so that he would not become malnourished."

Besides adapting to graduate school, unexpectantly but happily, Michele became pregnant last November. Elise was born in August. Michele completed her thesis in December. "She's go to be a very bright baby after all that," Michele joked. Three months later, Michele returned to Berks County as the extension home economist to pay back her sabbatical leave. And she resumed writing her "Back Home" column that has won two national awards from the extension service.

Always supportive, Steve encourages other men to do things with their children. "Don't be afraid to do things like changing diapers," he said. He believes babies add so much to life. He said, "Michele and I laughed more in this past year than in the past eight all put together."

Concerning housework, he admits, "I still don't dust." His

Steve and Michele Rodgers declare that Elise has made them laugh more in the last year than in the past eight years together. Elise is a happy, gregarious child who, Michele believes, thrives on interaction with both her parents and her babysitter.

Challenge Of The '80's:

wife explained, "That's because he is allergic to dust. But he does vacuum the floors."

"What works for me may not for someone else," Michele cautions. "When it comes to working and motherihg, there is no right or wrong answer. Every situation is different and it depends on the fulfillment and the opportunities a person has."

One of the most rewarding projects at Michele's job is coordinating the Fashion Revue. As a former 4-H'er, Michelle identifies with the joy in a project well done and in the sadness that 4-H programs sometimes entail. She explained that the first year she joined the dairy club she won a blue ribbon for her cow Gigi, who was more of a pet than a project. After several years, Gigi needed to be sold. A photo captures the emotion of the moment where Michelle walks her cow to a neighboring farm while wiping tears from her eyes with her dad's red bandana hankerchief. She said, "I swear the cow cried too."

After active involvement at Pequea Valley High School, Michelle attended Indiana University where she majored in home economics. After her freshman year, she landed an summer assistantship for three summers that opened doors for her becoming a Lancaster County home economist. After four years she transferred to the Berks County extension office. In 1980, Michele married Steve who was in seminary. His first pastoral position was in West Lawn, Berks County. By the time Michelle transferred to the Berks office, Steve had been transferred to Manheim, Lancaster County. "Consequently, I've always had to commute long distances," Michele explained. Her hour long drive now is not as tedious as it once was. Michele is not certain if that stems from becoming accustomed to it or if it is less hectic. She works hard not to schedule more than two nights away from home. That way the Rodgers manage to have at least one parent home with their baby.

She admits to breaking the stereotype of the pastor's wife who is involved in everything. She teaches the young adult Sunday school class and is involved with the youth. "I can't do everything," Michele said. "But thats ok. I feel like I am called to fulfill what I am doing."

Now, Michele is tackling something new. She, with Judy Stoudt, the Berks county horticulture agent, is filling a six month term as intern assistant to the regional director. "It's a new experience in an administrative role," Michele said. The job sharing is a new concept for the extension offices. "It's too early to evaluate whether or not job sharing works well in this area," Michele said. But she believes it is an excellent opportunity, one that she undertook only after much soul-searching.

"Knowing what we can handle and examining our opportunities needs constant reevaluation," she said. As Michele researches, writes and lives outs balancing family and work responsibilities, she's tackling one of the major challenges of the '80's. And that brings her much fulfillment. "Women," she stresses, "must be supportive of each other—what is right for one may not be right for the other."

Chefs Demonstrate Creativity At Ag Progress

ROCK SPRINGS (Centre) — Tantalizing smells drew people to the Meating Place where they were treated to tastes of culinary creations by professionals chefs during Ag Progress Days. Certified executive chefs, Steve Huszti and Ted Potter alternated 45-minute cooking demonstrations using beef, veal, pork, and lamb.

While cooking veal, Huszti urged viewers to add the things they like to eat and take out the things they don't like in recipes. "Don't be afraid to change a recipe. Don't limit your creativity. Always use your imagination and think 'how can I do this a little different from everyone else.'"

Huszti is the chief chef at the Treadway Inn in Lancaster with 60 people under him and is a member of the American Culinary Federation. Potter also is a ACF member and works as chef consultant for Naylor Wine Cellers in Stewartstown. The two frequently present demonstrations, many of which are performed for charity with the proceeds going to help that organization.

This is the second year for the cooking demonstrations. Last year Potter worked solo, but recruited Huszti this year when the length of each meat's demonstration was expanded as was the tent size. Both chefs cooked four different meals with each type of meat.

"We find people are very interested in what we are doing," commented Potter. "They are looking for new, innovative ways to present classic meats. They also are interested in low-calorie and nutritious meals."

Below are three of the recipes that Huszti and Potter cooked.

PORK PRIMAVERA

1 pound pork tenderloin, cut into 2x½ x¼ -inch strips
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 tablespoon olive oil
4 green onions, sliced
1 zucchini, grated into coarse pieces
½ pound fresh peapods
8-10 cherry tomatoes, halved and drained
½ teaspoon oregano
½ cup apple juice
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
2 cups fettucine, cooked

In a large frying pan, saute garlic and pork strips in oil until lightly browned. Add vegetables and seasonings. Simmer for a few minutes, stirring, until moisture is almost gone. Add wine and simmer to reduce liquid. Pour over pasta, toss all together with cheese. Serve immediately. Serves 4.

LAMB STIR FRY

2 teaspoons vegetable oil
6 ounces cooked lamb strips
2 cups sliced bok choy
2 small carrots, julienned
¼ cup sliced celery
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
½ cup plum preserves
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
Cooked rice
1 green onion with top, sliced

In frying pan, heat oil over medium-high heat; add lamb, bok choy, carrots, celery and onion. Cook and stir 3 to 4 minutes, or until vegetables are crisp-tender. Remove and keep warm. In same pan, heat plum preserves, lemon juice, and mustard for two minutes or until bubbling. Drain lamb mixture, if necessary. Add lamb mixture to plum sauce; stir to blend well. Serve over cooked rice and garnish with green onion. Makes two servings.

VEAL CUTLETS WITH PLUM SAUCE

1 pound veal cutlets, cut ¼ to ¼ inch thick
4 ripe purple plums, halved and pitted
½ cup port wine
1 tablespoon each mango chutney and sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt

Cut 2 plums into 8 wedges each, reserve. Chop remaining plums. Place chopped plums and wine in large saucepan. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover tightly and simmer 15 minutes. Meanwhile, place each veal cutlet on a flat surface. Cover with waxed paper and flatted with bottom of saucepan, mallet, or cleaver to ¼ inch thickness, reserve.

Place cooked plum mixture in blender container or food processor fitted with a steel blade. Add chutney and sugar, cover and process 15 to 20 seconds. Return mixture to saucepan; add reserved plum wedges. Cook, covered, over low heat 5 to 7 minutes. Meanwhile, heat heavy non-stick frying pan over medium-high heat three minutes. Quickly cook cutlets, 3 to 4 at a time for 1 minute or to desired degree of doneness, turning once. Remove veal to warm platter. Sprinkle with lemon juice and salt. Serve with warm plum sauce. Serves 4.

Low-Cal Dairy Recipes Worth A Bundle

HARRISBURG (Dauphin) — If you have low-cal know-how, and would savor the flavor of a little extra dough, you are invited to submit up to two recipes for this year's Low Calorie Dairy Recipe Contest sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program. This year the contest has two categories for entries, side dish and main entree.

The contest is open to all Pennsylvania residents except those who have professional food status or are directly affiliated with the sponsor.

Each recipe must use one low fat real dairy product as a main ingredient. Entries containing imitation dairy products will be disqualified, please remember that margarine is not a real dairy product. Recipes must be original, and may not have been previously published or have won an award.

All entries should state the exact amount of each ingredient in the order that it will be used. No brand name should be specified as an ingredient. Also include the number of servings and approximate preparation time.

Cash awards for this year's contest total $ 3,000. Prizes for each category will be presented as follows: grand prize, $1,000; second prize, $250; third prize, $150; and fourth prize, $100.

Judging will be based on effective use of low-fat dairy products including calorie content: taste and visual appeal; originality and creativity; ease of preparation and nutritional quality. Judges decision will be final.

Entries must be postmarked by September 10, and become property of the sponsor. Finalists will be notified by October 11, 1988. ## New Jersey State Officers

Officers of the New Jersey Association recently attended a National FFA Leadership Conference for State Officers. The conference was being held at New Brunswick, N.J. This is one of nine national conferences being held across the nation.

The FFA conference is designed to improve leadership and communication skills, develop understanding of state FFA officer responsibilities and prepare state officers for more effective leadership roles in their State FFA Association. The conference also provides a forum for the exchange of ideas between officers from several states.

A highlight of the meeting is the opportunity to work with the national FFA officers who are conducting the conferences. In addition to training sessions, the 1988 program includes a public speaking workshop, a banquet program and many other leadership activities all designed to improve the communication skills of state FFA officers.

The National FFA Leadership Conference for State Officers is sponsored by Merck and Company, Inc. as a special project of the National FFA Foundation, Inc.

Genetics Make Sweet Corn Sweeter

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — Consumers are becoming more picky about their produce.

Sweeter, higher quality fruits and vegetables are high on consumers' want lists, especially when they add versatility and variety to a healthy diet, says Leo Zanoni, Produce Merchandising Specialist for Asgrow Seed Company.

In answer to this growing consumer concern. Asgrow has developed enhanced sweet corns, collectively known as elevated sugar sweet corns.

"The difference between the standard corn and the elevated sweet corns is in the genetic makeup," says Stephen Marshall, Asgrow Sweet Corn Plant Breeder.

"A grower also has more time with an elevated sugar hybrid at harvest," Marshall says. "Fewer fields are passed by because of over maturity."

The shrunken-2 (sh-2) and/or sugary-enhancer (se) genes control the sweetness in elevated sugar sweet corn. Although both the se and sh-2 corns are high in sugar, definite differences exist.

Shrunken-2 triples sucrose

Shrunken-2 corn has triple the amount of sucrose found in standard corn and double the amount of total sugar, according to Marshall.

He says the key factor is that standard corns rapidly convert sugar to starch after their peak, while shrunken-2 genes inhibit the conversion of sugar to the more complex starch molecules. "In one Asgrow study on post-harvest holding, we found that after two days of storage at 80 degrees Fahrenheit the sucrose content of the shrunken-2 was 28 percent. The standard corn was 4 percent."

Production of shrunken-2 corns requires adjustment of traditional growing practices. Marshall cautions that a shrunken-2 must be isolated from all other types of corn or it will develop starchy kernels

ALUMINUM GOOSENECK TRAILERS

20' Gooseneck Trailer

A versatile, lightweight, Eby aluminum stock trailer is built to provide years of maintenance free service. An Eby trailer is custom built to fit your individual hauling needs - No mass production! We use only quality components and strong alloy aluminum to manufacture what may be the last trailer you'll ever buy.

- LIGHTWEIGHT - Eby stock trailers are 25-35% lighter than comparable steel trailers. Less weight means better fuel mileage or increased payload.
- MAINTENANCE- Eby aluminum trailers won't rust. Welding and painting can cost you dollars in down time and repairs.
- DURABILITY - Eby trailers are built tough. Quality components and 6061 alloy aluminum provide the ruggedness required in a livestock trailer.

The Secrets To Case International Axial-Flow Combine Success In The East...

FEWER MOVING PARTS...

HIGHER QUALITY GRAIN...

ALL CROP VERSATILITY...

The one moving part in Axial-Flow's entire threshing/separating process is the single large-diameter rotor. Nothing more. No cylinder, beaters or straw walkers. There's far less that can break or need maintenance. That's Axial-Flow combine simplicity.

Axial-Flow helps bring top price at the elevator. It handles grain more gently. Less crackage and dockage. You'll combine higher moisture grain at faster ground speeds for a quicker harvest. That's Axial-Flow performance.

Axial-Flow Combines for every crop. Designed to harvest over 100 different crops including corn, soybeans, wheat, sorghum and others. All popular grain header sizes plus 4 to 8-row corn heads.

Records Shattered At Chester Lamb Sale

W. CHESTER (Chester) — When the gavel fell Wednesday, August 3, Brandywine Savings Bank of Downingtown broke all records by purchasing the champion market lamb for $3.70 per pound. The 115-pound Hampshire-cross lamb shown by David Hicks of Elverson was an extremely well-muscled lamb with an adequate amount of finish according to judge Rod Gilbert of Delaware Valley College. The champion lightweight, weighing 90 pounds and shown by Kendra Stoltzfus of Elverson, was purchased for $1.90 per pound by Walter M. Dunlap & Sons of Lancaster. Both buyers have been long-time supporters of the market lamb project. # When Stress Becomes Distress

BY
GINGER SECRIST MYERS
Adams Co. Correspondent

GETTYSBURG (Adams) — We're learning how to utilize drought-damaged corn and sorghum. We're weighing the use of alternative feedstuffs for our dairy cows and livestock. We're even getting advise on business-management techniques that may help our farm businesses to survive. But, what do we do for the drought-stressed farmer and his family?

This question was addressed at a recent meeting of the Gettysburg-area Young Farmers where the guest speaker was Dr. Ray Bowen of Psychological Associates in Gettysburg. While there are more smiles now in farm country since the rains have been falling, only last month many farm families were experiencing the emotional stress of anger and despair that comes from watching a year's worth of work wither and die. Farming can be a stressful occupation. Bowne highlighted recognizing when stress becomes distress and ways to reduce that stress.

Bowen defined psycholocial stress as, "What you have to adjust to in a given period of time." He added that stress can be physical, mental, or both. Using a Life Stress Scale developed by Holmes and Rahe in the mid-60s, Bowen pointed out that stress can be positive or negative. You experience stress at happy moments, such as weddings, and at unhappy times, such as with trouble with your in-laws. Bowen stated that stress is caused by individual factors. If someone confides they are having problems with a situation that seems trivial to you, remember that for that person the stress may be very real.

The body's reaction to these stressful experiences ties back to our age-old instincts of "fight or flight" when faced with many of life's events. "In seconds, we make a judgement as to what kind of stress we're experiencing and we appraise the threat. Our secondary appraisal reaction then asks us what are our resources for handling this situation?", explained Bowen.

Bowen continued, "The problem arises when the body and brain are constantly bombarded with perceived threatening situations, and the person loses his ability to prioritize which reaction to work on and which to leave pass. This is when stress becomes distress."

Bowen listed several danger signs that can signal when stress is becoming distress. Some of these include: general irritability, hyper-excitation, or depression, grinding of the teeth, nightmares, accident proneness, decreased or increased appetite, increased smoking or use of alcohol and drugs, and the inability to concentrate, just to list a few.

Citing research figures, Bowen noted that 70 percent of all doctor visits are due to symptoms brought on by stress. While no acute illness can be found, a diagnosis of "It's just your nerves", should be taken as seriously as any specific disease would be taken.

Several personality types susceptible to stress diseases are the one-man band who tries to do too many things simultaneously; the chronic hurrier who is always under a self-imposed deadline; the exasperated person who can't wait in line; the combative challenger who competes in everything he does and has to be number one. Many of these traits can be applied to farmers as we compare crop yields, our place on the DHIA list, or our pay price from the dairy.

Several suggestions Bowen had as means for reducing stress included planning for down-time or idle time every day. Bowen stressed that this does not mean merely physically resting, but also allowing your senses to take charge so you can really "smell the roses" or "see the sunset."

Another way to reduce stress is to concentrate on one task at a time so its accomplishment can be enjoyed. Bowen stressed taking the opportunity to pat yourself on the back when a job is done to your satisfaction before jumping into another task.

Also, it was suggested that you interact at least once a day with someone who makes you laugh. It need not only be a person, but also could be a book, pet, or television show that you enjoy. Other suggestions are finding time to yourself, getting more exercise, and cultivating interest outside of agriculture that provide you with personal satisfaction.

Bowen concluded his presentation with a thoughts worksheet. This worksheet asks you to describe an unpleasant situation, specify the emotions and degree of emotions you have in that situation, then list the automatic thoughts that proceed those emotions. Such thoughts might be that the situation is all your fault or that some one is to blame for your predicament. Then the worksheet asks you to list your rational responses to those automatic thoughts and challenge their validity.

Bowen stressed that if a person could mentally put himself through these steps when confronted with stressful situations, it could help to refine his decision-making processes. This could help people to live with the decisions they have to make.

Spencer Receives Award

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — Stephen B. Spencer, professor of dairy science extension, was recently named recipient of a Distinguished Service Award from the Pennsylvania Association of Dairy Sanitarians and Dairy Laboratory Analysts. The award was given in recognition of his extension work with milk quality.

Spencer also presented a paper at the 83rd annual meeting of The American Dairy Science Association, held June 26-29 at the University of Alberta, Edmonton, Canada. Titled "Recent Research and Developments in Machine Milking- A Review," the paper examined research on the link between milking machines and mastitis. It also reviewed new technologies such as robotic milking and in-barn computer systems which monitor the herd's daily feed consumption and milk production.

Foraging Around

By Dr. John E. Baylor
Director of Market Development
Beachley-Hardy Seed Company

After The Drought

Depending on where you live and farm, you may not agree the drought is over. Based on reports at the time or this writing, nearly every area of Pennsylvania has received some rain. It is come mainly in showers, and that means the amounts have varied widely-probably from as little as 2 inches or less to 10 inches or more based on the reports I've heard. And with the high temperatures that have persisted throughout the state, moisture has disappeared rapidly.

But, regardless, in most areas of Pennsylvania, forage supplies are short, and the question is, what can you do now to re-establish damaged forage stands and stretch your limited forage supplies.

Assess Your Needs

As recommended by dairy nutritionists and others, the first job is to take a hard look at your forage needs and consider all of the alternatives before choosing a plan of action. That's a key point.

Late Summer Seedings

Right now is, of course, an excellent time to establish, or re-establish if necessary, new seedings of alfalfa or alfalfa-grass mixtures. Certainly of all of our perennial forages alfalfa has the greatest potential for profits. A planting made now won't help an immediate forage shortage, but it will provide more top quality forage next year.

Natural advantages for seedings made now include fewer insect and weed problems. The big disadvantage is moisture-too little or too much.

No-till seedings in small grain stuble are a good bet if you've done a good job of controlling existing vegetation. On a prepared seedbed, be sure lime and fertility levels are adequate and the seedbed is firm. And, needless to say, use a well adapted multiple pest resistant alfalfa variety.

Corn For Silage

With fields of corn so variable, it's almost impossibhle to make a sound judgement on how to handle your crop. However, here are some facts.

Corn harvested for silage will yield about one-third more nutrients than the same crop harvested for grain, and corn in the full dent stage produces 50 per cent more feed than in the milk stage and 100 percent more than in the silking stage. Thus, if pollination occured and some grain is formed, hold off harvest for silage until the kernels are fully dented and the over-all moisture of the ensiled crop is 65-70%.

High nitrate levels in drought stricken fields of corn continue to be a concern. Ensiling the crop and allowing it to go through a complete fermentation will result in reduced nitrate levels in the forage.

Brassicas

Forage brassica crops such as rape or turnips, planted right now, can provide valuable high quality forage, primarily in the form of pasture this fall and early winter. Rape and turnips reach a maximum yield within 90 to 100 days after planting, and also have the capability of regrowth. They can be no-till planted with precision planters at recommended rates, or if a conventional drill is used, mixing the seed with other crops of similar size such as foxtail millet may be helpful.

Seed supplies of the brassicas are in short supply at this time

Small Grains

Spring oats planted now at the rate of 3 bushels per acre will head out by late fall and can be used for pasture, greenchop, silage, or hay

Rye or triticale planted during the next 2 to 3 weeks at the rate of 2½ bu. per acre, will supply late fall pasture and then can be harvested next spring at head emergence time for silage or greenchop. Remember, triticale will head out some 10 to 14 days later than rye.

You may also want to consider a mixture of rye (60 pounds per acre) and oats (60 pounds per acre) planted as soon as possible. In years past, this mixture was used to take advantage of the greater fall production of the oats without losing the spring production of the rye.

It's good to be back Foraging Around after several months of absence, and I look forward to staying in touch on a regular basis during the months ahead.

Homemaking Trends

The refrigerator is a modern day marvel no home can do without. Most Americans take it for granted day in and day out... opening it and closing it... filling it and unloading it.

According to home economists from KitchenAid, we may be taking it a little too much for granted. In order to do the very best job of keeping our perishable foods their freshest, it needs a little help from us. The key to preserving the natural moisture and storage life of refrigerated foods is proper preparation and wrapping, say the home economists.

Here are some tips to refrigerate for better taste and less waste:

• Vegetables and fruits are best kept in your refrigerator's crisper or in an airtight container. Trim the bruised areas from leafy vegetables, such as lettuce, celery and parsley. Rinse them in cool water and then allow to drain. Place them in the crisper with some of the water still clinging.

• Vegetables and fruit with skins, (tomatoes, peppers, peaches, etc.) should be washed and dried before placing in the crisper.

• Berries keep better if not washed until ready for use. Simply sort, wrap loosely and store in the crisper or a closed container on a refrigerator shelf.

• Poultry- keep in store wrapping, if plastic. If wrapped in paper, rewrap in plastic and store in meat tray.

• Fresh meats- remove the market wrapping and rewrap in aluminum foil. Store in meat tray.

Scavenger®II spreaders

Here's the one spreader for the two-spreader farm. A Gehl Scavenger II spreader lets you spread liquids, semi-solids, pen-packed, even frozen manure The patented heavy-duty square-tube auger makes the big difference Turning at low rpm, it produces a unique "pulse action" that breaks up manure in the tank Specially formed paddles rip through tough clods to deliver a steady, constant flow to the discharge The auger can be hydraulically powered up and down to chop through bridged and frozen material The Varifio discharge gives you complete application control Five models are available with heaped capacities from 192 to 596 bushels They're backed by a 10-year rust-through warranty We have all sizes in stock! Stop In Soon!

box spreaders

If you handle mostly solid manure, the Gehl box spreader should be your choice Special Gehl-Tuff flooring — with a smooth, durable, slippery top surface—keeps the apron from freezing to the floor and lets manure slide out with little resistance Strong T-bar apron chains keep the load moving 12-gauge, corrosion-resistant GEHLSTEEL sides and strength Polyethylene transmission shield sheds manure and won't rust like metal Beaters are welded-on for extra strength, in a rooster comb pattern for wide, even spreads And the constant velocity pto delivers constant, smooth power transfer when you're spreading on turns Five sizes range from 135-bu. to 425-bu. heaped capacities; single or tandem-axle models They're backed by a 10-year warranty on sides and floors In stock Model 325 tandem axle and hydraulic end gate, splash guard & rub rails, upper beater Call For Ag Progress Special Price!

Slurry Special/liquid tanker

The Gehl Slurry Special gets semi-solid (self-leveling manure) onto your fields fast and economically Loading is easy from barn cleaner or bucket with the efficient, open-top design Three models, with capacities up to 3,300 gallons For liquid manure handling, a Gehl liquid tanker features a full-length internal auger, for spreading evenly uphill or down, heavy-duty rear fan delivers high application rates and fast unloading Two models with 2,600 and 3,300 gallon capacities Both spreaders are backed by a 10-year rust-through warranty.

1465/1865 variable chamber round baler

Depending on the type of baling you do, a variable chamber round baler may be your best buy Features include Gehl "air-draulics," a system that gives you total density control (TDC®). It allows you to control the size of the bale core and the density of the outer wrap to build a bale that's just right for your crop You get high quality bales that look good and store well And you can operate your baler with a lower horsepower tractor The Model 1465 makes bales up to 5 ft in diameter, The Model 1865, up to 6 ft Gehl's optional Auto-Electric Wrap System ensures a uniform twine wrap automatically, bale after bale

1310/1710 fixed chamber round baler

If you're looking for extra-easy operation, the Gehl fixed chamber roller balers can't be beat They easily handle all crops and conditions including corn stalks, alfalfa, sudan grass, straw, damp hay and thin windrows all with sure starts And, they're simple to operate Steel rolls form bales with medium density centers and hard outer layers that shed moisture, hold in nutrients and seal out weather You can make bales 4 ft , 4 in in diameter with Model 1310 and 6 ft with Model 1710 Choose manual, electric of hydraulic dual twine tying systems

970 self-unloading forage box

More speed, greater capacity are the big advantages built into every Gehl 970 forage box These boxes give you the capacity and unloading speed to put an end to bottlenecks at the silo The wide, 23¼ in cross conveyor extends 9 inches beyond the forage box side for easy positioning to the blower The special GEHLSTEEL used in the sides, endgate and stakes is superior to other steels Available in five capacity sizes from 397 cu ft on the 14-foot model up to 750 cu ft on the 18-foot model

1160 windrow merger

The hydraulically-driven 1160 combines two windrows as you harvest your crop Fuel savings are substantial because you make only half as many passes, plus you can reduce ground speed to save wear and tear on your tractor. The unit quickly mounts on the front of most tractors As you pass through the field, one windrow is picked up by the unit Then, a cross conveyor carries the material to the side where it tumbles into the second windrow Result improved uniformity of cut because of the thicker crop mat feeding into the harvester Gehl's windrow merger also works great with square balers

1060/1260 forage harvester

Gehl's revolutionary Auto-Max system is standard on the 1260, optional on the 1060 It lets you operate your harvester at top capacity, without fear of downtime due to overloading, so you get more harvesting done in less time With both the 1060 and 1260, you save more time with features like the exclusive, patented one-side cutterbar adjustment and inhead hycraulic knife sharpener. Both machines feature a unique spinner delivery system instead of cross augers Options include Gehl's Metal-Stop metal detector and haylage water tank. ## AirDiesel

DEUTZ KEEPS ITS COOL
"Stays Alive At 95"

Deutz Air Diesel has more margin of safety in the cooling system. Why?
Because Deutz air cooling system has about 100% more temperature difference at 90°F. Greater temperature difference between cooling surface and cooling air provides more margin of safety. Deutz air cooling system is not as sensitive to temperature rise, therefore the cooling cycle does not break down in "hot" weather.

Deutz air cooling system is a cleaner combination of air cooling and tube oil cooling. Lube oil cooled pistons allow high outputs with a wide margin of safety.

Fewer cooling system parts to give you trouble. Call or visit us to get the full details on the amazing Deutz Air Diesel cooling system.

Youngest Lancaster Club Member Shows Grand Champion Hog

BY LISA RISSER

LANCASTER — Derrick Frank must have known there was something special about the hog he named after himself. The 248-pound crossbred barrow grabbed judge Dave Hartman's eye immediately and was declared grand champion hog at the Lancaster County 4-H Swine Show.

Eight-year-old Derrick, the youngest member of the county swine club, brought three hogs to the show, which is his first experience at showing hogs. Along offering support was his mother Charlene Frank of Rheems who showed hogs for several years in Chester County. Hatfield Packing purchased Derrick the hog for $2.50 per pound.

Slipping into the reserve grand champion slot was the club's president, Andrew Groff of Lancaster, who exhibited a 250-pound hog. The 17-year-old youth has been a 4-H'er for about eight years and has been showing swine for the same length of time. Groff has had several grand champions at FFA shows and a reserve grand champion at a previous 4-H show.

The club's oldest member, Sheldon Heisey, was selected as the grand showman.

The hog sale brought $21,523 for 31,490 pounds of hog. The big buyers were Hatfield Packing, which took home 48 animals, and White Oak Mills of Elizabethtown taking 22. Hatfield also purchased another 80 hogs from the original buyers at $.47 per pound. The average price of the 140 hogs was $.66.

Flexibility In Lamb Feeding From Clair Engle

This year's drought conditions and subsequent high feed costs have forced all livestock producers to make critical decisions concerning feeding their livestock. Recent research studies conducted over a three year period at the University of Wisconsin compares lamb performance on a high-concentrate (no hay diet) vs a high roughage low grain (hay-grain diet).

Following is a brief overview on the necessary procedure, results and conclusion.

Procedure The 84 lambs were three months old, sired by Suffolk rams out of Dorset x Targhee x Finn ewes. Four diets were used and each was duplicated making 8 pens with 10 lambs each. The lambs were prepared as in the previous year. They were sheared two weeks before the experiment and there was a 9-day warm up period. The directions for starting the lambs on the shelled corn-commercial protein supplement and mineral supplement were supplied by Doboy, New Richmond, Wisconsin. All salt or mineral mixture fed was contained in the feed.

The lambs were fed to 110 lbs. slaughter weight. The four diets were as follows: 1. Alfalfa hay-grain pelleted, 2. Same as No. 1-not pelleted, 3. Finely ground ear corn-no hay, 4. Shelled corn plus pelleted protein plus mineral supplement. The prices used were as follows:

| | Cost/Cwt. |
|---|---|
| Alfalfa Hay - 15-17% protein ($90/T) | $4.50 |
| Shelled Corn ($3/bu) | $5.36 |
| Ground Ear Corn | $5.46 |
| Oats ($2.35/bu) | $7.34 |
| SBM 10.04 | |
| Cane Molasses, Liquid | $6.00 |
| Sheep Mineral Salt | $9.70 |
| Limestone | $3.12 |
| Aureomycin Crumbles | $14.60 |
| A, D, E Premix | $20.00 |
| Processing costs-grinding, mixing and delivery | $6.00/Ton |
| Pelleting | 15.00/Ton |
| Mixing and delivery (corn and protein supplement) | $4 00/Ton |

Results

The results quoted are a computation of 3 years of feeding trials. The pelleted fed lambs gained faster with the highest feed cost per pound of gain. The lambs, however, were not fatter.

Again, the lambs receiving the ground ear corn diet without hay did equally as well as the lambs fed the ground corn-hay diet. There was no significant difference in any of the factors studied.

The biggest difference in the final results of this experiment and earlier trials was the improved performance of the lambs fed shelled corn and a pelleted protein supplement. Their gain was more comparable to the other lambs and feed required/lb. of gain was the lowest. This, along with lower feed costs, is more in line with three of the previous four experiments with this diet. There was no excessive eating of bedding or gnawing of panels. The shelled corn fed had very few broken kernels. One idea on the importance of the whole kernel is that it swells in the rumen thus causing more cud chewing which appears to be beneficial.

Conclusion

The same conclusion given in previous reports is still valid. To quote -"The important finding of three experiments is that there is no great difference in the performance of lambs fed diets varying widely in fiber content. This is significant because it gives considerable flexibility depending on feed prices, feed availability, labor supply and equipment on hand."

Cargill Takes Steps To Cope With Drought, Heat

MINNEAPOLIS, MN — The following are some steps Cargill Hybrid Seeds has taken to cope with the reduced yield in seed corn resulting from the drought and heat.

• Protecting carryover for 1989 planting. Cargill Hybrid Seeds has air-conditioned seed warehouses at strategic Corn Belt locations. It is one of the few seed companies with air-conditioned warehouse capacity to protect its seed carryover. Keeping seed at 50° F and 50 percent humidity helps maintain germination and vigor.

Cargill estimates enough quality carryover seed to supply 50 percent of its customer needs, although the seed size or hybrid of first choice may not always be available.

• Changes in U.S. seed production. A significant percentage of Cargill's U.S. seed corn production was switched from dryland to irrigated acres in 1988.

Seed corn production areas were "environmentally matched" to specific hybrids so each hybrid can take advantage of normal sunlight and other factors that affect hybrid production. This meant spreading production over a wider geographic area.

A seed corn production procedure called "double delay" allows Cargill to increase the odds for a good seed crop of some hybrids. This involves planting additional male rows at different times to lengthen the critical pollination period.

These steps taken in 1988 should help assure both the quantity and quality of Cargill's seed even under this year's abnormal circumstances.

• Supplemental winter production. In late June, it seemed evident that 1988 seed corn production would be less than originally planned.

Cargill called on its worldwide resources to plant supplemental production in Chile, Argentina, Florida, southern Texas and Hawaii.

This production will be planted in late August and September and should be available to meet U.S. customer needs for 1989 planting. Also, parent stocks and initial quantities of new hybrids are being produced at these locations to help assure hybrid availability for 1990 and beyond for U.S. growers.

Karcher Announces Marketing Strategy

W. PATERSON, NJ — Alfred Karcher, Inc., the world's leading producer of high pressure cleaning equipment, announces a major expansion to establish a truly nationwide dealer network.

According to David Haythornthwaite, recently appointed vice president of sales and marketing, "We intend to build and strengthen our existing dealer network, at the same time expanding into areas where we currently have little or no representation. To head this expansion campaign, three experienced territory managers have been recruited for the Southeast, Southwest and Midwest Regions. With this new approach, Karcher plans a 50 percent increase in nationwide dealer representation in the next two years."

Anticipating that market potential for its products in the United States would be substantial, Karcher began operations here in 1983. Karcher's emphasis has been on promoting portable and mobile high pressure cleaners for cold water, hot water and steam cleaning applications, as well as chemicals and equipment accessories. Karcher also markets a wide range of wet/dry vacuums, carpet extractors, brush sweepers and floor scrubbers.

Karcher cleaning equipment is available through 350 authorized dealers and 4 company owned and operated branch operations providing service and spare parts support to customers across the country.

Service Technician Graduates From Case/IH Tractor School

RACINE WI — Gerald Ferguson, a service technician at A.L. Herr & Brothers in Quarryville, has just completed a five-day intensive training course at the Case IH Service Training Center here The course emphasized the new Case IH 7100 Series tractors, call the Magnum line

The training program included classroom and hands-on study of the Magnum line's transmission, engine, hydraulic system, hitch and electronic systems. Students received an overview of the manufacturing processes used to assure high quality in the Magnum tractors

To sharpen their servicing skills, students disassembled and reassembled components They also practiced performing critical equipment adjustments and learned precise testing and troubleshooting procedures

Students in the course were instructed in predelivery, which involves using a checklist to thoroughly check over the tractor at the dealership before delivery to the customer. The service technician signs this sheet and the customer receives a copy to confirm that the checks have been made

The Magnum line represents the first totally new tractors from Case IH since the 1985 merger of Case and International Harvester The four models in the 7100 Series range from 130 to 195 PTO horse power. The tractors feature a totally new engine, transmission and cab that will set new standards in the farm equipment industry for performance efficiency and comfort.

Ciba-Geigy Hosts Annual Weed Science Contest

LIVINGSTON, NY — Undergraduate and graduate students participated in the Sixth Annual Collegiate Weed Science Contest sponsored by the Northeast Weed Science Society. The contest was held today at Ciba-Geigy's Northeastern Research Station.

The Northeastern Collegiate Weed Science Contest provides an educational experience from which students in northeastern universities can broaden their applied skills in weed science.

Del Voight of Pennsylvania State University received first place for the highest individual undergraduate score.

David Vitolo, research specialist/herbicides with Ciba-Geigy Corp., and coordinator of the contest, stated "The contest provides excellent opportunities for weed science students. Aside from giving them a chance to apply what they have learned, it gives them the opportunity to meet each other and be exposed to researchers from other universities and industry."

Undergraduate and graduate students currently enrolled in a northeastern university and pursuing a B.A., M.S , and Ph.D. degree participated in the contest. Students competed individually or in teams consisting of two to four members.

The contest consisted of four major events. The first event was the seedling weed identification event. From among 75 possibilities, each student identified 20 weeds by common name and five weeds by scientific name, with correct spellings. A botanical key was used in identifying two of the weeds.

The second event dealt with applicator technology. There were two sub-categories consisting of sprayer calibration (a team event) and a written test on sprayer calibration.

In the sprayer calibration category, each team was given a CO2 backpack sprayer to be calibrated and a herbicide to be mixed and applied. Each team was expected to choose appropriate nozzle tips, speed, pressure, and amount of herbicide for accurate calibration and application

Students then answered 10 written questions on all aspects of sprayer calibration such as volume of spray needed amount of material needed, etc

In the third event, students identified, by visual symptoms on crops and weeds, the herbicide applied on 10 plots

The fourth event consisted of problem solving and recommendations Students evaluated a crop production problem in a field or office situation and made recommendation of an effective solution that would comply with accepted agricultural practices.

An advisory panel consisting of five members of the Northeastern Weed Science Society scored the contest. The score from each event was averaged between team members with the exception of the sprayer calibration event, which was added to the total score. The average scores from each event were added together for the total score.

There were 10 teams and two individual competitors in the contest. Students came from the universities of Cornell, Guelph, Maryland, Pennsylvania State, Rutgers and the Virginia Polytechnical Institute.

The Virginia Polytechnical Institute C-team consisting of Bill Chism, Bill Vencill, Joe Vollmer, Sam Wilson, and coached by Scot Hagood, received the highest team score among the competing graduates. Second-place acknowledgment went to the Virginia Polytechnic Institute A-team consisting of Carroll Moseley, Jenny Vollmer, Lewis Walker, and Sam Yenne also coached by Scott Hagood. Third-place acknowledgment went to the Guelph University graduate team consisting of Carlene Chase, Dave Kloppenberg, and Rob MacDonald, coached by Jerry Stephenson.

The first place undergraduate team was Robert Anderson and Bill Webster from Guelph University.

The highest combined score from 9 events except the sprayer calibration determined the overall graduate and/or undergraduate winning individual. First place for the highest individual graduate score went to Virginia Polytechnical Institute A team member, Carroll Moseley. Second-place acknowledgment went to Guelph graduate Bob MacDonald and third place to Virginia Polytechnical Institute Co-team member Jenny Vollmer.

Del Voight, an undergraduate student of Pennsylvania State University, received first place for his outstanding individual score. Receiving second and third place acknowledgments were undergraduates Bill Webster and Robert Anderson of Guelph University

Awards were presented at a banquet held Tuesday evening.

Area Northrup King Managers Attend Sales Conference

MINNEAPOLIS, MN — A.G. Laos, Agri-Products Division vice-president of Northrup King Co., recently assured sales managers that despite the drought, the New Northrup King would provide an adequate supply of high-quality seed to farmers at a fair price and continue its strong investment in research. Northrup King Co. is the second-largest commercial seed company in America.

Attending the company's national sales meeting was Jack Gaudette, regional sales manager from Doylestown, Pa.; Steve Shipman, district sales manager from Mill Hall, Pa.; and Bill Snyder, district sales manager from Chestertown, Md. The meeting was held at the Sheraton Park Place Hotel in Minneapolis, Minn., on July 17 to 21. The company presented the year's new sales and marketing programs to its Agri-Products employees. Attendees also discussed farmers' service needs and toured the company's seed research and biotechnology center in Stanton, Minn.

In his opening address, Laos said, "Not many seed companies have the skills or backing to even attempt to meet the challenges of the drought. Fortunately, we have the experience and resources to offer solutions."

He continued, "The New Northrup King has an excellent inventory of high-quality seed. We also have the resources and facilities to produce a top-quality seed crop almost anywhere in the world. We will have major production of key hybrids in South America and Texas, this winter. And, our expert agronomic staff will help farmers manage their crops to minimize the long-term effects of the drought."

The seed industry has become more competitive in recent years, added Don Jacoby, vice president of sales. Rapid technological change has meant shorter product life cycles. "Customer needs must dominate our thinking. We are competing for farmers' business on quality and service," said Jacoby. "The drought and its effects will be a real test of our ability to deliver our best. The American farmer is going to look for help, for solutions, for leadership."

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

Schadler Named Interim Regional Director For Penn State Extension

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre) — Alletta (Letie) M. Schadler, Lebanon County extension director has been named interim regional director for the Southeast Region of Penn State Cooperative Extension. She succeeds James J. McKechan who retired from Penn State last month.

Penn State Cooperative Extension has offices in all 67 Pennsylvania counties. Administratively the state is divided into four regions. As interim southeast regional director, Schadler will coordinate College of Agriculture programs, personnel and budget in 16 southeast counties.

She has been an extension home economist in Lebanon County since 1970 and has conducted adult education programs in the areas of nutrition, food preservation, equipment, housing and community development.

Alletta M. Schadler

She also served as county extension director, supervising the county staff and handling overall operation of extension education programs in Lebanon County. # Program Helps Farmers Judge Milk Price Changes

STATE COLLEGE (Centre) — More than 4,000 Pennsylvania dairy farmers will face a proposed change in the way their milk is priced in the future. Those farmers can evaluate the effects of the proposal on their own operations with the help of a Penn State Cooperative Extension computer program.

The proposal being considered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture would affect farmers in the federal milk order 2 region, which includes processing plants in New York and New Jersey. About 4,000 dairy farms, representing 40 percent of Pennsylvania's milk production, sell their milk in that region.

The proposal would encourage farmers to maintain a consistent level of production throughout the year or to increase production in the fall, when demand is greatest, according to Jack Kirkland, assistant professor of agricultural economics at Penn State. Many farmers have the greatest production in the spring, giving processors a surplus of milk then and a tight supply later in the year.

Under the porposal, each farmer would have an established production level, based on the average production from the months of August through November of the previous year. In the following year, the farmer would be paid a higher price for milk production up to that base level, but any excess milk would receive a lower price. A similar base-excess plan is already in place in Federal Order 4, which includes Pennsylvania processing plants.

Farmers who manage their herds and breeding programs to end up with an even production level throughout the year would benefit, Kirkland says. Farmers whose production increases in the spring would not fare as well.

USDA is now conducting hearings on proposed changes in Federal Order 2. If it decides to adopt the porposal, farmers and their cooperatives will have a chance to vote on the new order, Kirkland says.

He has prepared a program that allows farmers to calculate what their income would be if the proposal were accepted, and to estimate what it would be if they changed their management practices.

The program is available at Penn State Cooperative Extension offices in the counties with farmers selling in Order 2. Farmers have the option of using a worksheet or filling out a data sheet with production information and giving it to the office to run through the computer program. All information will remain confidential.

Northern Lebanon FFA Tops Southeastern Dairy Show

BY PAT PURCELL

MANHEIM (Lancaster) — In the 33rd Pennsylvania Southeast Region FFA Dairy Show held Tuesday at the Manheim Fairgrounds Northern Lebanon FFA was named number one in the best three females competition by school groups. Little wonder. This group of young breeders had three champions, two of them grand champions in their breed.

Judging the color breed type show was Ginger Myers of Littlestown in Adams County. Myers and her husband are registered Jersey breeders and also operate a forage analysis lab. Holstein type show judge was Sam Yoder who is well-known for his prize-winning Milking Shorthorn and also has Holsteins in his milking herd at his farm in Shoemakersville. Yoder's Milking Shorthorn took the supreme championship title at the Allentown Fair dairy show last year.

Douglass Seipt of Easton served as the fitting show judge and and Tom Smith of Palmyra served as the showmanship judge. The Southeastern Regional FFA Dairy Show includes the counties of: Berks, Bucks, Chester, Lancaster, Lebanon, Lehigh, Montgomery, Northhampton and Schuylkill.

Brown Swiss

Teresa Hill of Northern Lebanon FFA was chosen as the number one breeder and exhibitor in the entire color breed show. Hill also exhibited the senior and grand champion Brown Swiss, Little Hill Maples Marge, a homebred 4-year-old, sired by Maple Grove Performer. Judge Myers admired

Dave Lentz (left) with the senior and grand champions. Sonnen-Acres Mars Lucream shown by Adam Sonnen of ELCO FFA took the reserve senior title in the Holstein show. Lentz was named the number one breeder/exhibitor of the Holstein show and Adam Sonnen took the second spot.

An easy champion in any show was Tom Arrowsmith's (left) Hillacres Title Liddy from Solanco FFA which took the junior and reserve grand champion in the Jersey show. Timothy Ulrich (right) also of Solanco FFA showed the junior reserve champion, Hillacres Legend Meg. Arrowsmith also captured the grand champion title with Hillacres Surville May.

However, for the reserve grand champion, show judge Myers tapped the growthy junior champion noting the animal's set of good feet and legs. Michael Kunkle of Northern Lebanon FFA exhibited the junior champion Shady Creek J D Starbright into the reserve grand championship. This senior yearling was sired by Johann Johnny D and bred by Rich ... Wenger of Manheim. Myers praised the beautiful mammary system on the reserve senior champion, but noted a soreness in the feet during the show and went to senior yearling for the reserve grand.

Holstein

David Lentz of Northern Lebanon FFA led San-Bo Mars Katie to the Holstein senior and grand championship titles. Sired by Marshfield Elevation Tony this homebred 5-year-old, was selected on her extreme dairyness and said she could stand a lot of competition. In the reserve senior champion spot, Yoder selected a 3-year-old dry cow, Sonnen-Acres Mars Lucream shown by Adam Sonnen of ELCO FFA.

But Yoder went to his junior champion for the Holstein show reserve grand championship. Yoder admired the balance and cleanness of this intermediate yearling and felt she was more correct on her feet legs and she could stand up to a lot more competition. The junior champion shown by Sherry Donmoyer of Northern Lebanon FFA was R&E Jon Ribbon-Red, sired by Needle-Lane Jon-Red, bred by R. & E. Donmoyer. Show judge Yoder praised the balance, strength and correctness of Ribbon-Red, and liked her looks from hooks to pins. Kathy Jo Mase of Anville FFA exhibited the junior reserve champion, Ken-Ire Gold Jo a summer yearling.

The county of Lebanon exhbited the best four animals in the county groups. David Lentz was named the top breeder/exhibitor in Holstein show with Adam Sonnnen named for second place.

Guernsey

It was a good day for Steven Wagner of Solanco FFA. Wagner took home the ribbons and trophies tor the junior champion and reserve junior champion, reserve senior champion and reserve grand champion in the Guernsey show. It was Heidi Schlegel of Oley Valley FFA and her 3-year-old dry cow, Maple Knoll Norman Marta which halted Wagner's sweep of the titles.

The junior champion intermediate calf of Wagners, Bo Joy Lyonell Maxine was home bred and was also named the reserve grand champion. In the reserve junior champion spot was a junior calf, Willows Hallmark Priscilla. Reserve senior champion a 6-year-old East Malta Premier Meg.

Jersey

From Solanco FFA Tom Arrowsmith's senior calf took an "easy blue" and would be a champion for any show according to show judge Myers. Hillacres Title Liddy is homebred and sired by J. F. D. Title. Timothy Ulrich also of Solanco FFA showed the junior reserve champion, Hillacres Legend Meg, bred by William Arrowsmith and sired by Schultz Performing Legend.

In the grand champion spot was Arrowsmith's Hillacres Surville May. The junior champion was tapped for the reserve grand champion title.

Tom Arrowsmith was named the number two breeder and exhibitor in the color breed show. Lancaster County exhibited the best group of four in the Jersey county competition.

Ayrshire

As she led her grand champion senior 2-year-old Ayrshire from the ring Laura Harding said triumphantly, "I finally beat him".

That "him" was her brother, Wesley. And Wesley has been rising above the competition for several years in Ayrshire shows and his sister and brother, Christopher, find some satisfaction when they can finally out do him in the show ring. However, the smile on Wes's face indicated that although he wasn't holding the grand champion trophy, he was pleased to see it still in the Harding family.

Winning the grand honors for Northern Lebanon FFA was Laura's Sycamore Meade Quality's Renny bred by Keefer and Shetterly of Millersburg. Wes took the reserve grand honors with Green Brae Pudges Stancey sired by Caverly Farms Pudge and bred by John Stick of Lebanon.

In the junior champion spot was Eugene Kreitzer, also of Northern Lebanon FFA, with Conebella M.R. Primrose, sired by Ardrossan Star M Mr. Ross and bred by Charles Gable of Elverson. Laura Harding picked up the junior reserve champion with an intermediate calf Penn-Bell's Rebel Kryspi sired by Des Peupliers Rebel and bred by Jean Campbell of Narvon.

GINGER SECRIST MYERS
Adams Co. Correspondent

ARENTDSVILLE (Adams) — The Adams County 4-H Dairy Club held its project Round-up Saturday, August 6 in conjunction with the Adams County 4-H Fair held annually at the South Mountain Fairgrounds. Doing the judging this year were: Thomas Dum III, Landisburg, type judge; Mel Durboraw, Gettysburg, fitting judge; and Tim Brown, Littlestown, showmanship judge.

Senior member Christine Todt picked up a fistful of blue ribbons exhibiting both the junior and reserve junior champions in the Holstein competition. Chris's intermediate calf, Todtdale Baltimore Rebel Sheri, took the top honor while her intermediate yearling Todtdale Brady Dynamo Juliet stood reserve. Chris also was selected as both the show's champion fitter and champion showman. Chris is currently serving as the Club's president.

Denton Guise also had a blue ribbon day winning both the senior and reserve senior titles in the Holstein breed. His dry 2 year old, Buttonwood Columbus Sybil, was named senior champion and his 3 year old, Buttonwood Joe Eloise captured the reserve title. Denton was also selected as the Reserve Champion Fitter of the show.

In the Jersey competition senior champion was shown by Daniel Yingling. His 3 Yr. Old, Frederick Farm Connoisseur, edged his competition over Kathy Reever's cow in the same class, Smokey Hill St. Jeff Jen. Reever's cow was named the reserve senior champion. First year member Mindy McClaughlin picked up her first blue ribbon and the junior champion title of the show with her senior calf, Penstate Royal 85. Kathy Reever showed the reserve junior champion KPR Fascinator Shines Sandra, the winning junior yearling.

Other winners in the fitting and showing competition were: Brian Coulson, first place mini-showman; Michael McLaughlin, reserve mini-showman; and Matthew Guise, reserve champion showman.

Culminating the show was the club's annual calf dressing contest. Locally elected officials are invited to be team members each years. Officials participating in this year's contest were: U.S. Rep. Bill Goodling, State Rep. John Broujos; county Treasurer George Stock, and County Commissioner Robert Klunk. # Bush Hog Introduces New Finishing Mower

SELMA, Al. — New Bush Hog FH Series heavy-duty flail mowers make it easy for 40- to 72-hp tractor owners to fine cut turf or mulch heavy grass.

"Flail mowers are growing in popularity because of the fine cut they provide in materials ranging from grass to orchard prunings," said Robert O. Moore, vice president of sales. "The new FH Series flails combined with our FL and FM series flails provide units for tractors from 10- to 72-hp."

Three models are available with cutting widths of 62, 74 and 88 inches. Their heavy-duty blades have a 1-inch cutting capacity, and the units are offset to easily cut hard-to-reach places, such as next to a building, under orchard trees or next to fence posts. A uniform cutting height in uneven terrain is maintained by floating linkages.

Rotors are fully assembled with blades at the factory and electronically tested for balance to insure vibration-free rotation. Extra strength is built into each rotor to prevent whipping action if blades are lost. The drive belts are especially heavy duty for longer life and less maintenance.

For further information, contact Bush Hog, Dept. FH-NR, P.O. Box 1039, Selma AL 36702-1039.

IT MAY BE CHEAPER BUT IS IT BETTER?

Buying grain storage on price alone can be quite dangerous. Some other brands of grain bins quote a low price and achieve it by selling you only part of a bin. BROCK offers you a complete grain bin at an honest price and includes the needed components that help the bin last longer, protect your stored grain right, and yield the best returns as your No. 1 grain marketing tool. Feature for feature, you get more for your money and more crop security with BROCK. So why settle for only half a bin?
